Your Vote Today to Decide Future of L.B.

By MALCOLM EPLEY
A final flurry of campaign activity Monday brought Long Beach voters to the threshold of today's municipal election, which will decide the fate of an even dozen measures, some of them among the most important in the city's history. Polls will be open today from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. At least 50,000 of the city's registered voters are expected to participate. The campaign has been only mildly controversial, which may reduce the turnout of voters. In 1956, when a hot issue developed over the airport runway extension, more than 70 per cent of those registered voted. Prop. 1, which would authorize offshore oil development expected to return $1.7 billion to city and state, tops the vital proposals on today's ballot. A simple majority will pass this resolution. City Auditor Murray T. Courson gave Proposition 1 an additional push when he estimated that income from the oil program, over a 25-year period, would benefit the bond redemption and general purpose funds, and save gas charges to city consumers, sufficiently to far offset the cost of the bond programs in today's vote. Other proposals include bond issues to finance a new main library, new city hall, senior citizens center and added fire-fighting facilities. These require a two-thirds vote for passage. Propositions 6 and 7, providing for tidelands projects, do not involve tax money and require only simple majorities. Five charter amendments are up for action. Proposition A, which will increase from $250,000 to $500,000 the amount of tideland oil moneys which may be expended without voter authorization. This is proposed to avoid delay and expensive elections on relatively small projects. Proposition B is an important related measure to assure payment of maintenance on tidelands projects out of tidelands rather than general funds. Proposition D has received prominence in the campaign through the activity of Councilman Andrew Baird. He filed a letter with the county grand jury charging that this measure is fraudulent and deceptive because it affects certain voting privileges by repealing a section of the charter. The public, he said, did not understand this. But City Atty. Gerald Desmond promptly replied that the repealer does not deprive citizens of any voting privileges. These, he said, are (Continued Page A-5, Col. 1)

Diem Survives Bomber Attack on Viet Palace

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Tuesday (AP)—Two fighter-bombers with markings of the South Viet Nam air force blasted President Ngo Dinh Diem's palace with bombs, rockets and machine guns today, but Radio Saigon announced an hour later that Diem and his family were safe.

The attackers also strafed the Saigon airport.

The 61-year-old bachelor president, his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu and Nhu's wife were in the palace at the time.

THE GOVERNMENT broadcast said one of the planes, identified by American sources as AD6 Skyraiders, crashed north of the capital. This plane is an attack craft used by the U.S. Navy in World War II and supplied by the United States to South Viet Nam's air force.

It was not immediately known who piloted the planes or what triggered the attack. The only military movements inside Saigon were by government troops setting up a defense perimeter around the palace, one wing of which was left in flames by the attack.

Early reports said four planes were involved in the attack, but the figure was later revised to two.

(A REPORT from the South Viet Nam press agency received in Tokyo said the planes were piloted by rebel members of the South Viet Nam air force and that the pilot of the plane that crashed had been arrested.

(U.S. officials in Washington, after receiving reports from Saigon, regarded the aerial attack as an isolated incident and not a wide-spread conspiracy to unseat Diem. The South Vietnamese president has been accused of trying to perpetuate a family dictatorship.)

She Needs Slide Rule to Park Car

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—While city officials try to rid streets of record February snow—more than 25 inches so far, motorists are prohibited from parking on odd-numbered sides of streets on odd days—even-numbered sides on even calendar days.

It has resulted in a blizzard of parking tickets and some confusion, topped by a woman's plea to police: "Where shall I park," she asked, "if my license plate ends in an even number?"

Congress Stands, Cheers

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., rode the capital's glory road in strictly no-go weather Monday and told a wildly cheering Congress that space promises unimaginable benefits for mankind.

Addressing an extraordinary joint meeting of Congress after riding through rain-soaked den but frenzied crowds totaling 250,000, America's first man in orbit said:

"We are just probing the surface of the greatest advancement of man's knowledge of his surroundings that has ever been made.

"It is hard to even envision the benefits that will accrue in many fields."

MANY women wept openly and men strove to hold back tears as he wound up his simple, modest speech by invoking the Creator's name:

"As our knowledge of the universe in which we live increases, may God grant us the wisdom and guidance to use it wisely."

It was an emotion-packed day—emotion that ran the gamut from tears through grins to lusty laughter.

Biggest laugh came when the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel told the august gathering of legislators, ambassadors, supreme court judges, and generals assembled in the House chamber how 4-year-old Caroline Kennedy cut him and his brother astronauts "down to size this morning."

Seeing him off at West Palm Beach Airport, the irrepressible daughter of the President looked him up and down and asked:

"Where's the monkey?"

It appeared the one Caroline really had hoped to see was Enos, the orbiting chimp.

"That really put us in our proper position," Glenn said.

HE ADVISED Caroline at the time that Enos was off somewhere eating a banana. Amid a roar of laughter, he confided to his great congressional audience that he personally did not get a single "banana pellet on the whole

Across the Nation Bitter Cold Strikes Midwest

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Bitter cold knifed deep into the nation's midsection Monday on the heels of the third Midwestern snowstorm in a week.

The mercury nosedived to 32 below zero at Butte, Mont. The Arctic blast raised cold wave warnings south across the Plains to eastern New Mexico and eastward to the Ozark Mountains, the middle Mississippi Valley and Wisconsin.

The storm that dumped up to 8 inches of snow on Iowa and Michigan and 6 inches on parts of Nebraska and Wisconsin shoved across the Great Lakes. It threw a light band of snow and a belt of freezing rain ahead of it as it sped toward southern Canada and the extreme northeastern United States. The latest wintry onslaught closed hundreds of schools in Iowa and Michigan.

Ted Kennedy Back

BOSTON (AP)—Edward M. Kennedy, the President's youngest brother, returned Monday night from an extensive European trip and said he was "overwhelmed" by the good will there toward the United States. Kennedy, assistant district attorney in Suffolk County, which includes Boston, arrived aboard an Irish International Airlines plane at Logan Airport.

Cubans Ask Asylum

MIAMI (UPI)—Sixteen Cubans arrived here Monday in a hired fisherman's boat and asked for political asylum.

Joseph Minton, deputy director of Immigration, said the 16, all men, left Las Villas Province in Cuba at 12:15 a.m. Saturday. He said their boat ran out of gas and they were towed into Miami.

Macmillan Writes K of Summit

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan joined President Kennedy Monday in holding out prospects to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for a spring summit meeting after the 18-nation disarmament conference gets under way in Geneva March 14.

Khrushchev had sought to bring the heads of government together when the conference opened.

A personal letter from Macmillan to Khrushchev was delivered at noon Monday at the Kremlin in Moscow one day after Kennedy told Khrushchev he is open to a summit meeting later if gains are made by the Geneva conference.

MACMILLAN and Kennedy were reported to have consulted during the weekend before drafting their similar replies. The replies reflect slight Anglo-American differences on the approach to a summit, reflected in the phrasing.

Macmillan's letter told Khrushchev that a summit conference "might be fruitful" if the Geneva meeting makes satisfactory progress or, alternatively, if it should be threatened with deadlock. Kennedy suggested a summit be held "until a later stage in the negotiations when certain preliminary work has been accomplished."

SIMULTANEOUS BROADCASTS JFK, Nikita Plan TV Talk Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia were reported Monday to be arranging for simultaneous television broadcasts in both countries of statements by President Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. The tentative date is March 24 or 25.

Informants said the two leaders will make independent statements—in English and Russian, respectively—which will last 15 minutes each. They will be followed by translations.

The statements will be taped or filmed in advance.

THE AGREEMENT in principle for such a television broadcast in both countries, was reached by Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, and his Soviet opposite number, Mikhail Kharlamov, when the two met in Paris in January.

Details, including the prospective date, have been discussed during the U.S.-Soviet negotiations on cultural exchanges, now in their fourth week in Washington.

Although the Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange is specifically a White House-Kremlin issue, it will be within the framework of the new agreement on cultural exchanges which will provide for appearances of top-ranking public figures, either in person, on radio or television, or in the form of pre-taped broadcasts. Informants explained.

The government of the Republic of Ireland (southern) welcomed the announcement.

Terrorists Hit Algiers in Waves

ALGIERS (AP)—Murder struck Algiers every eight minutes through the noon hour Monday while authorities began a campaign of "extending peace" to Algeria's elected officials.

European gunmen swooped down in three waves on the heart of the city, shooting down all Moslems in sight. Within 90 minutes after 11 a.m., 11 corpses were picked up on the Rue Michelet and the Rue D'Isly, the city's principal shopping streets. By nightfall, police counted 22 persons killed and a score wounded in Algiers.

Those dead included two Europeans whose heads were cut off, apparently by revenge-seeking Moslems. Fifteen Moslems were injured when a bomb hidden in a car exploded in the suburb of Maison Carree.

THE TOTAL toll of Algeria's major cities was 29 dead for the day, plus more than 30 wounded.

While shots rang out in Algiers, the government's chief representative in Algeria, Jean Morin, summoned some 30 officials of Algeria's regional and departmental councils to explain the gist of accords with the Moslem Nationalist rebels.

The National Council for Algerian Revolution, the rebel government's parliament, debated the cease-fire terms in Tripoli, Libya, for the fifth day. The French cabinet already has approved them.

L.A.C. SAYS: Among the Slackers

Estimates are that from one-third to one-half of the registered voters will go to the polls today in one of the most important elections ever held in Long Beach. That would mean half or more of our citizens would fail in their responsibility. The city clerk's estimate is 50,000—which is only 30 per cent of the 161,874 registered voters. This could mean that 20 per cent of the registered voters could pass the four bond issues—or 10 per cent plus one, could kill them.

If we are to demonstrate our right to the free elections and the secret ballot in this country, the people are going to have to justify it. If they do not care enough to use this sacred right, the time will come when they will lose it. They cannot expect public officials to pay attention to the many when elections are decided by the few.

On today's ballots are four bond issues which will provide the much needed new downtown library—a new city hall where the many scattered city departments can be placed under one roof—the remodeling of the present public utility building for housing the recreation department and also its use for senior citizens—and the essential modernization of our fire department facilities.

There is Prop. 1—which will permit the city to join with the state in development of the vast oil reserves under the water in front of the city. All essential safeguards against subsidence and damage to the beach are provided. It means development of a vast oil wealth from which the city and its taxpayers will profit—to even a greater extent than they have from the harbor oil development. But the city can have control of this development only by approval of the voters. If Prop. 1 is not opposed the field will undoubtedly be developed by the state without any city controls.

Propositions 6 and 7 and A and B all pertain to use of tideland oil money which can be used only for purposes connected with the tidelands. By the use of this tideland oil money, taxes are saved for beach maintenance and structures that otherwise must be paid from taxes. Its use in development of the Marina costs the taxpayers nothing. But it has already brought millions of dollars of new taxable property to the city and it is estimated over $100 million of new private capital will be invested because of this development.

These projects mean more jobs and a broader tax base—which in turn, will reduce taxes on property throughout the city—which otherwise would be assessed. Developments of our civic center has already brought a number of new buildings to our downtown area. There are many more projected as the civic center is developed.

It is a tremendous program. It involves more money than most cities ever have. But it involves oil money that Long Beach is fortunate in having. But unless the people are interested enough to provide ways of developing and using it, we will lose its benefits. We recommend a Yes vote on all 12 proposition.

A difference of opinion is natural in any election. But there is nothing natural about supposedly good citizens not expressing their opinion at the ballot box. Doing so is a sign that you believe in and support the kind of government that provides this method of making our decisions. Don't be among the slackers.—L.A.C.

750 Greet Glenn at Home

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and his family received a joyous, roaring welcome from their neighbors that almost got out of hand when they arrived home from their day of glory Monday.

Some 750 people—about 75 per cent teenagers and children—were jammed around the home as the Glenns arrived at their attractive rambler house in suburban Arlington, Va., across the Potomac River from Washington.

The cheering crowd broke through the ropes set up by police to hold them back and surged quickly forward. The best the police could do then was to surround the Glenns by linking hands around them and escorting them up the driveway.

The Glenns went inside but a few minutes later the colonel, Mrs. Glenn and their two children—14-year-old Lyn and 16-year-old David—came out on the porch.

"Coming home to you is like coming home to home folks," Glenn told them. "This has been one of the happiest days of my life. I think most all of you must have been downtown. If you weren't you were the only ones who weren't."

As Glenn finished the crowd began to sing "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." When the family went inside, the crowd began to break up.

INVITATION

Acting Secretary-General U Thant has invited U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. to visit the United Nations Thursday to meet members of the U.N. Outer Space Committee.

Informed quarters said Monday the invitation was extended through the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Glenn will be in New York Thursday for a parade and official welcome sponsored by New York City.

THEORY

A young satellite engineer came up with a theory Monday that the "fireflies" spaceman John Glenn saw on his orbital flights around the earth last week might have been frozen droplets of Atlas fuel from an earlier booster rocket.

"I think these bugs were nothing but droplets of fuel from the Atlas booster fuel tank—some sort of kerosene compound," said Burton R. Tunzi, satellite data systems specialist for Beckman Instruments' systems division at Palo Alto, Calif.

Glenn reported seeing glowing particles that resembled "fireflies" each sunrise as his Mercury spaceship circled the globe.

Man's Best Friends---or Foes?

Take me somewhere east of Long Beach
Where a man can raise a thirst
Where there ain't no city election
And a bar will serve a tourst

—RUDYARD THE RED-NOSED ELECTOR.

Yep, it's election day. And before you head for Signal Hill and your luncheon liter of dago red at De Palma's—vote.

And remember—no matter how the election comes out, tomorrow will be better. It's bound to be. The bars will be open and the sound trucks will be closed down. If that isn't progress, I don't know what is.

Meanwhile, another red-hot battle is raging between the pro-pets and the anti-pets. Well, the latter are not all antis. Lots of 'em like pets but want them confined to their own yards and homes, or kept on leashes. The other side insists that dogs (or cats) are Man's Best Friend and people should be more tolerant of them.

WELLS

Partisans of both sides have been pressing their points of view on this column.

I own an arrogant, "athletic-gray" miniature schnauzer. About the only thing he isn't allowed to do is to utilize the neighbor's yards and boulevard strips as a comfort station. I get a little unhappy with my game of pet hockey each weekend, cleaning up the front yard after other people's dogs.

But, then, a lady client writes me that I should be more tolerant because, after all, a dog is Man's Best Friend.

I was brought up believing a Boy's Best Friend was his mother. And if some of my neighbors were to bring their mom's past my place and she were to behave like their dogs do, she'd be in jail.

Cat Crisis, Too

I have a communication from a Mrs. Sue Brunner, who lives with her husband and a beagle I know, name o' Henry, pointing out that the Cat Situation is as bad or worse than the Dog Situation.

"As the owner of a dog who is never permitted beyond his own front door or backyard," she writes, "for some time I have been becoming increasingly incensed over the fact that though we regularly have him inoculated for rabies at a cost of $3.50 and yearly pay $3 for a city dog license ... no such regulations apply to cats. Untold numbers of cats are allowed to roam at will, uninoculated and unlicensed. In this fair? And more important, is it safe? ...

"We have sat in our living room and watched a procession of (cats) across our back fence. They wait under our bedroom windows at night. They march across our patio and backyard when the dog is in the house. We've opened the garage door and had them come bounding out in the morning. ...

"We've shouted at them. We've turned the hose on them. We've thrown clods of dirt at them. And still they pester us. Perhaps our dog could be criticized for his barking, but what self-respecting dog wouldn't be perpetually bordering on a nervous breakdown if he had to contend with the number of cats that ours does?"

No Horse Sense

And H. Montgomery, of 4905 Ken Ave., Lakewood, has still another animal problem. Horses. There is a large open field at Del Amo and Lakewood which is to be part of the new Mae Boyar Park. Mr. Montgomery notes. The Horse Situation in this field, he believes, is deteriorating. During the past year, the number of horses in the field has risen to approximately 18.

He wants the park. He does not want horses. Horses, he says, bring dust, dirt, flies and odors.

That's strictly his views, you understand. I'm not committing myself.

Back in the Flickertail State, where I grew up, Man's Best Friend was the horse.

Teamsters Local Stages New Revolt

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Stormy Teamsters Local 208 staged another revolt against union leadership Monday, throwing pickets around the Teamster Building to protest the firing of a union office worker.

About half a dozen pickets marched up and down outside the building, 1616 W. Ninth St., for more than three hours carrying placards demanding local President William Croysdill "must go."

The volatile local rocked the national Teamster organization last May when a group of members locked themselves in at Teamster headquarters here to protest the discharge of a union administrative adviser. Police had to be called to oust the dissident members.

THE PROTEST Monday centered around the firing of Sandra Nixon from the Local 208 office force.

The pickets insisted the woman was fired because she is a Negro.

Teamster spokesmen, however, insisted just as emphatically she wasn't fired—"she was laid off" in a cut of the office staff.

Tougher Entrance Plan for State Colleges Eyed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The Board of Trustees of the state college system will consider a three-year plan to tighten freshman admission requirements at a two-day meeting starting Thursday at Sacramento State College.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, vice chancellor of the state college system, said if the plan is approved, admissions will be limited to the top third of high school graduates by 1965.

The colleges now take the top 45 per cent. Dumke said he hopes to limit admissions to the top 39 per cent by the fall of 1963.

To enter a state college now a high school graduate must have As or Bs in 14 semester hours of subjects other than physical education or military science.

THE NEW plan for 1963 adds a specific list of college preparatory courses that must have been taken. They include any six of the following:

English, foreign languages, journalism, mathematics, natural sciences, philosophy, social sciences and speech.

Now high school students who don't have high grades can still get into a state college if they score within the top 80 per cent on college aptitude tests.

The new plan would require As or Bs in at least 10 of the 14 semester hours, and a score within the top 70 per cent on college aptitude tests.

EXCEPTIONS to the new rules would be allowed for two per cent of any freshman class.

Dumke said high school graduates unable to meet the new requirements could still attend a state college after satisfactory work at a junior college.

If the trustees approve the plan, the standards outlined above would be tightened even more in the fall of 1964, and 1965.

Dumke said the new plan is in line with California's master plan for higher education.

The master plan sees most juniors and seniors attending state colleges. Freshmen and sophomores would attend junior colleges, and the University of California would give prime emphasis to graduate work.

Nixon Sees Red-Backed Menon Wins Easily in India

SAN MATEO (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon expressed concern Monday night about future industrial growth of California.

He suggested "there may be a political pattern of shifting defense work from California, despite the high caliber of our work force and our pre-eminent research centers at Palo Alto, Berkeley, Pasadena and Westwood."

"Now the national administration is considering distributing defense contracts on the basis of reducing unemployment," he told the Peninsula Manufacturers Association at a dinner address.

THE CANDIDATE for the Republican nomination for governor of California said this would mean shifting defense jobs from California to other states.

He noted that nearly 24 per cent of manufacturing jobs in the state are linked to defense, "a very vulnerable industry."

Nixon again said that tax policies of the Democratic administration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown was not conducive to drawing new industry to California. And, "We need to provide 250,000 new jobs each run"—his flashing, 17,530-mile-an-hour ride three times around the globe last Tuesday.

Glenn Proud of U.S. Cheers

Weather worse than that which forced some of the 10 postponements of his great adventure plagued this historic day. Cold rain fell for hours beginning in early morning.

Nevertheless, Pennsylvania Avenue—the glory road, the street of heroes—was lined with undaunted throngs as Glenn rode by in a procession from the White House to the Capitol.

From under massed umbrellas, the cheers rang out loud and clear. And from 17 hands along the route—their bass horns burling with rain water—came the strains of the Marine Corps hymn "Semper Paratus" and many another pulse-stirring tune.

AT FIRST, as the parade started, Glenn rode alone on heads of governments and the back of the automobile, nation's greatest military leader, the 40-year-old Marine, his leather-gloved hands waving a happy greeting. His wife Annie, clad in a red, back-of-the-head hat and a woolen coat over a gray dress, sat in the backseat alongside Vice President Johnson. Glenn's daughter Lynn, 14, and son David, 16, sat in front.

But midway on the 1.8-mile, snail's pace journey, Glenn decided Annie should be as prominent as he—he later told Congress she's "the real rock in our family."

So he leaned over, helped her up topside along with him, and there they rode, their big grins flashing, their hands waving. Annie did button up her greatcoat a little more against the cold drizzle.

Glenn and his family, with the President as flying host, rode up from West Palm Beach Monday morning in the big presidential jet. Glenn and the family had spent a weekend of seclusion, boating at Key West.

SPEAKING to the Senate and House from a rostrum seldom occupied except by the nation's greatest military leader, the 40-year-old Marine, his leather-gloved hands waving a happy greeting. His wife Annie, clad in a red, back-of-the-head hat and a woolen coat over a gray dress, sat in the backseat calmly and with touches of humor. And he easily carried his distinguished audience with him through successive waves of applause and roars of laughter.

At one point, he echoed the amazement of almost every American—and perhaps of the world—when he spoke of the five-miles-a-second speed with which his Friendship 7 capsule whizzed through space.

It was a speed, he said, "that I, too, find difficult to comprehend."

And, he indicated that he looked upon the tumultuous welcome given him on Washington's rain-drenched streets as a tribute to the people, to this country, not to him alone.

"I STILL get a hard-to-define feeling inside when the flag goes by and I know you do, too," he said, as he stood before the hushed legislators. "Today, as I rode up Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, and saw the tremendous outpouring of feeling on the part of so many thousands of people, I got that same feeling. Let us hope that none of us ever loses that feeling."

His thinning hair still damp from rain, the man who flew thrice around the earth in the time it takes to go to New York from Washington by train, declared space flight is still in its infancy.

But, even in its present stage of development, he quickly added, the American program "indicates a much broader potential impact than electricity."

"I FEEL," said the Ohio-born flying Leatherneck, "we are on the brink of an era of expansion of knowledge about ourselves and our surroundings that is beyond description or comprehension at this time. Our efforts today are but small building blocks in a huge pyramid . . .

"There are benefits to science across the board. Any major effort such as this results in research by so many different specialties it is hard to even envision the benefits that will accrue in many fields."

Glenn continued: "Knowledge begets knowledge. The more I see, the more impressed I am—not

"LET'S HAVE FUN," seems to be the attitude of astronaut John Glenn during his speech Monday before both houses of Congress. He pinched his nose and laughed, sending a wave of warm, friendly feeling across the crowded chamber. The gesture occurred as Glenn told of Caroline Kennedy's question, "Where's the monkey?" earlier in the day.

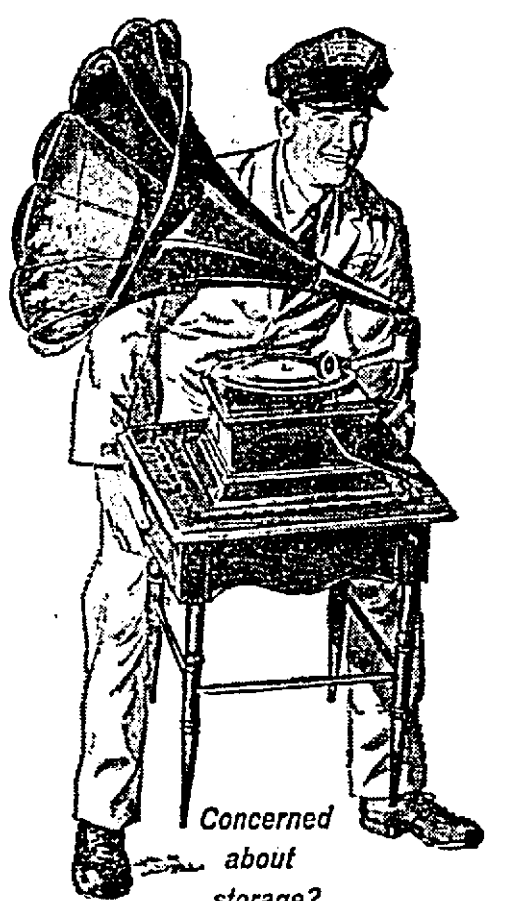

with how much we know—jily," he said of his wife, Annie, but with how tremendous the nie. Again the cheers rolled across areas that are as yet unexplored. He paid special tribute to "the earlier flights of Alan Shepard and Gus Grissom insofar as we apply them to who are over here." More our future actions. Progress never stops. We are now on the verge of a new era."

GLENN made an effort to share the glory with his family and with other members of the Project Mercury team.

"If my parents would stand in an obscure corner of one up, please," he called. And of the galleries—and once they did, amid ringing cheers, again there was a salvo of "The real rock in our famaplaude.

Zorin Voices Hope for U.N. Space Unity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Soviet Chief Delegate Valerian A. Zorin voiced hope Monday that a coming U. N. meeting on outer space would lay the groundwork for Soviet-U. S. cooperation in that field.

At a news conference he cited Premier Khrushchev's cable to President Kennedy last Wednesday hailing Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s space flight and suggesting that the two big powers pool their efforts to explore space.

Zorin, a deputy foreign minister, said the Soviet Union intended to cooperate with the United States and all other members of the 28-nation U.N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space.

HE SAID he thought that when the committee convened March 19, "we shall be able to work out a program of work for this committee which will make possible mutually beneficial and advantageous cooperation in this field of endeavor."

"We hope," he added, "that there will be proposals—from both sides, of course—which would lead to a fruitful cooperation in the field of outer space."

On a visit to southern California in 1943, Harry decided to stay. For six years he was a resident buyer for a world-wide buying organization serving over 200 department and chain stores in this country and abroad. He handled the sales promotion work with these retail stores. Other work experience included two years with Fairchild Publications in Los Angeles as California account representative for two of their publications, and two years with Southern California Publishing Company representing two of their newspapers.

With this background in advertising and merchandising, Harry came to the Independent, Press-Telegram's Display Advertising Staff in 1956. He currently works with accounts in the Downtown Long Beach area. Harry keeps abreast of the trade through training courses such as "Operation Step-Up" and "Retailwise."

Secret-File Shift Told by General

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Roderic L. Hill said Monday he ordered the transfer of intelligence files from the San Diego Armory because no state official was responsible for them.

Hill, in a report to Gov. Edmund G. Brown said the files, compiled over the last few years by the California National Guard as part of its intelligence mission, were in charge of Col. Frank Forward from 1956 until last December.

He said Forward retired and the counter-intelligence corps of the National Guard was inactivated last December.

"My investigation disclosed that no state official was immediately responsible for security of the files," Hill said. "I asked the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation to take custody of the files and the CII agreed to do so."

"IT IS my belief that the nature of these files and the attendant publicity has obscured the fundamental fact that such intelligence files must be in the hands of responsible state officials for security reasons and that this has been accomplished by the transfer," Hill said.

Shell Raps Unruh on 'Dirty Politics'

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, R-Los Angeles, tossed the charge of "dirty politics" at Gov. Brown and Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh Monday.

The house minority leader, seeking the Republican nomination for governor, also said GOP opponents—not named—are working to prevent his endorsement over Richard Nixon by the California Republican Assembly.

Shell told a news conference there has been "a lot of talk" that certain Republican leaders were dangling the Republican state vice chairmanship in an effort to draw CRA support for Nixon.

HE PREDICTED he'd defeat Nixon for the endorsement by the statewide party campaign organization.

Shell came here to sit in on subcommittee hearings of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee to which he was appointed by Unruh over his protests.

He said Brown and Unruh "are obviously attempting to immobilize me in my campaign for governor." Shell said he had to call off 12 speaking engagements this week alone because of the subcommittee work.

SHELL SAID he would insist that the CRA, meeting in Berkeley next weekend, ballot on its choice for the Republican nomination for governor. Nixon has suggested that the CRA drop its pre-primary endorsements.

The Los Angeles assemblyman also told newsmen: Spot checks show he has picked up from 12 to 32 percent of the Republican vote in the past 90 days in counties stretching from San Diego to Sacramento.

HE HAS personally witnessed more than 400 Democrats switch registration to Republican so they can vote for him in the June 5 primary.

Assemblyman John A. Buserud of San Francisco, GOP caucus chairman, also agreed Monday to serve on the Ways and Means Committee at Unruh's insistence.

BUSTERUD noted opinions of the legislative counsel that assemblymen can not refuse a committee assignment without consent of the full Assembly.

Baird wrote the "con" argument in the voters pamphlet on this amendment, using two words: "No recommendation."

Asked about this, he said he did not have enough time, after determining that he was to write the argument, to look into the matter fully.

Desmond said Baird did not confer with him before taking this letter to the grand jury and therefore did not get Desmond's explanation that the voting privileges involved in Proposition D are protected elsewhere.

At least two last-minute leaflets assailing election propositions were stuffed in mail boxes or dropped from an airplane.

City officials and Citizens Committee spokesmen said they had expected such "irresponsible actions from a few disgruntled individuals who were afraid" to argue their stand far enough before the election to allow factual answers to be given.

"The information in the two leaflets I saw was wholly inaccurate," City Manager John Mansell said. "I feel that the spreading of these untruths can only be attributed to a desire to hoodwink and confuse the voters and to damage a fine program for city progress."

Jerry S. Jacobs, chairman of the Citizens for Progress Committee, said he felt sure "that this attempt to insult the intelligence of the voters of Long Beach" would fail.

"This program has been carefully thought out and planned by our dedicated city officials and by hundreds of citizens in various advisory bodies," Jacobs said. "I believe the people of Long Beach will not be misled by anonymous pamphlets or last minute untruths."

Tunis Charges French Attack

TUNIS (AP) — Tunisian officials said Monday that French planes supported by an artillery bombardment attacked Tunisian soil for two hours Sunday, killing one person and wounding another.

Eight days ago two French air force planes fired rockets at an Algerian rebel camp in Morocco. The French said the pilots, who fled after landing, had violated their orders.

Who says "GO"?

Before an American Airlines plane takes off, ten of our divisions must approve the flight. If any one says "no," the flight doesn't go. This results in a certain number of cancelled flights, but it means that when you fly, you go only when conditions are right.

For example, the weather for your flight is studied not only by government forecasters, but by our own meteorologists, dispatchers, pilots and co-pilots. When your plane takes off, you know that ground conditions, ceilings, cloud patterns, storm areas, winds, clear areas have all been analyzed by pros. Had there been any doubt, the flight would not have left the airport.

As for the planes you ride in—they receive over five man-hours of maintenance and inspection for every hour they spend in the air. Thousands of aircraft specialists are involved in these ground checks, and if any one of them turns thumbs down, the plane is not allowed on the line.

Finicky? You're darn right we are. It's one more reason why experienced travellers consistently choose American.

Next time you plan a trip to Chicago, New York or Boston, for instance, fly American. For reservations, see your travel agent or telephone American Airlines at NEwmark 8-0444.

SPENCER TRACY "Judgment" PIPER LAURIE "The Hustler" NATALIE WOOD "Splendor" PAUL NEWMAN "The Hustler"

ONLY 3 OF 20 PREVIOUS WINNERS Oscar Nominees Have Glow of Youth

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar performance by an actress were: Audrey Hepburn of "Breakfast at Tiffany's"; Piper Laurie, "The Hustler"; Sophia Loren, "Two Women"; Geraldine Page, "Summer and Smoke"; Natalie Wood, "Splendor in the Grass." All are in the young leading lady class.

Two veteran actors will be battling a trio of up-and-comers in the best-actor race. Charles Boyer of "Fanny," and Spencer Tracy, "Judgment at Nuremberg," are pitted against Paul Newman, "The Hustler"; Maximilian Schell, "Judgment at Nuremberg"; and Stuart Whitman, "The Mark." It is Tracy's eighth Oscar nomination.

TOP HONORS among the best-picture nominees were divided between "West Side Story" and "Judgment at Nuremberg," which scored 11 nominations apiece. The two films are up against "The Hustler" (9 nominations), "Fanny" (5) and "The Guns of Navarone" (7).

Carrying on the youthful theme, the nominations for male supporting actor included such newcomers as George Chakiris ("West Side Story"), Peter Falk ("Pocketful of Miracles") and George C. Scott ("The Hustler").

Also in the running were two stars-turned-support: Montgomery Clift, who did a brief role in "Judgment at Nuremberg," and Jackie Gleason in "The Hustler."

JUDY GARLAND was another star who turned up in the supporting category. She was nominated for her vignette in "Judgment at Nuremberg," along with these supporting actresses: Fay Bainter, "The Children's Hour"; Lottie Lenya, "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone"; Una Merkel, "Summer and Smoke"; Rita Moreno, "West Side Story."

Even the race for best director neglected the veterans who usually dominate the awards. The nominees: J. Lee Thompson, "The Guns of Navarone"; Robert Rossen, "The Hustler"; Stanley Kramer, "Judgment at Nuremberg"; Federico Fellini, "La Dolce Vita"; Robert Wise and Jerome Robbins, "West Side Story."

THE NOMINATED songs were "Moon River" from "Breakfast at Tiffany's" and the title themes from "Bachelor in Paradise," "El Cid," "Pocketful of Miracles" and "Town Without Pity."

The young nature of the acting nominees is evidenced by the fact that only three of the 20 are previous winners: Tracy (1937, 1938), Miss Hepburn (1953) and Miss Bainter (1938).

Young and old will gather at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium April 9 for the award of statuettes to the winners. The event will be telecast to the nation with Bob Hope in command.

Gunman Robs L.B. Market

An armed thug escaped with two bags containing several thousand dollars after holding up the manager and assistant manager of Lucky Market, 4600 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. at 11:32 a.m. Monday.

The bandit, who drove a stolen car to the store, took an automobile from a salesman when his original getaway car would not start, Officer H. J. Hainley said.

Hainley said the thug drove an automobile stolen from Brandon D. Rosser, 1875 McNab Ave., to the store.

THE MANAGER of the market, Todd Sloan, 48, was standing in front of the store when the bandit, a gun concealed under his overalls, forced him inside the store.

After getting the two bags filled with silver and bills, the thief forced the manager and assistant manager Bob Wood to accompany him approximately 200 yards to Rosser's stolen car.

The robber had tossed the money inside the car. When it failed to start he had his two victims take the money out.

A SALESMAN, Frederick Hanshaw, 28, drove up in a car at this time and the robber forced him from the car and escaped with the money.

The holdup man was described as male, white, dark hair, 5 feet 9 inches tall, 200 pounds, in his late 20s or early 30s. He had a moustache and goatee, wore a green army hat and khaki pants under a painter's overalls.

SOUTHLAND SCENE Two Boys Perish in Bedroom Fire

HAWAIIAN GARDENS—Despite the warning barks of a pet dog, two children were burned to death in the bedroom of their home here early Monday.

Mrs. Alice Jane Short, 29, told Lakewood sheriff's deputies she was awakened by the barking of Princess, her German shepherd, and immediately smelled smoke in her home at 22327 Arline St.

Rushing to the bedroom door, Mrs. Short was unable to get it open more than three inches because of the heat and flames, she said. Inside were Michael Mattos, 7, and his half-brother, Kenneth A. Martin, 4.

Firemen also were unable to enter the burning home. Investigators theorized the fire was started by the boys playing with matches.

The stepfather, Richard Short, 29, said he had left home about 5:55 a.m. for his service station job. An opened carton of matches found lying on the sink was not there when he left for work, Short said.

Runaway Girls 'Rescued'

WILMINGTON—Three 13-year-old girls "rescued" from a desert isle hideout told their story to Juvenile Hall investigators Monday.

The three runaways camped in a tent Saturday night on a sandy hummock in Bixby Slough, 300 feet from Pacific Coast Highway.

Sunday someone reported the camp to the sheriff's department and county lifeguards rowed deputies to the hideout.

The girls, missing from the Gardena area for a week, said some boys had rowed them to the island Saturday and were to return for them.

Odds Favor Him, Says Richards

By BILL BROOM of The Independent's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—State Sen. Richard Richards Monday described U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel as an "insincere" man who "stands on both sides of every issue."

Richards is the only California Democrat who has announced his candidacy in opposition of Republican Kuchel, who is up for re-election this year. He is in Washington to familiarize himself with federal-state issues which may crop up during the campaign.

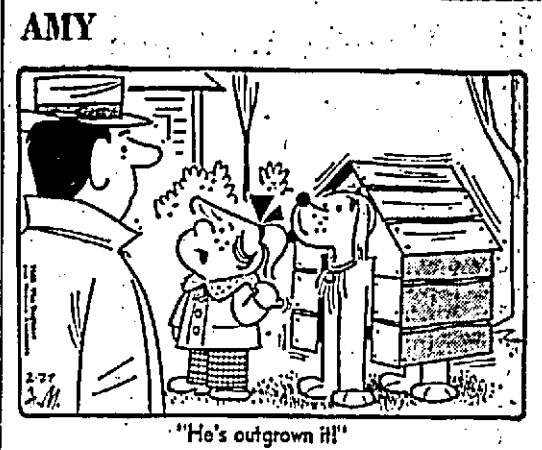

At a press conference, Richards said that Kuchel "registers as a Republican and attempts to kidnap the Democratic platform."

THE GOP senator votes the conservative line in committee and on amendments which "tear the heart" out of legislation, such as federal aid to education and housing, Richards said. But on final passage, Richards said, Kuchel votes for these proposals, and claims a liberal feather to his cap.

Richards said "all the odds" will be with him in his second attempt to unseat Kuchel. They were opponents the last time Kuchel ran in 1956.

Since then, their respective roles in the 1956 campaign have been reversed, Richards said. The Democratic candidate said he expects to run on President Kennedy's coattails this year as Kuchel ran on President Eisenhower's coattails in 1956.

OTHER factors which will help his candidacy, Richards said, are the presence of a Democratic administration in Sacramento, avoidance of a bitter primary fight, which he had in 1956 against Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, and the abolition of cross-filing in California.

Richards said Kuchel will labor under the same handicaps which beset him (Richards) in his unsuccessful 1956 race—notably stiff primary opposition, party cleavage, and as representative of a party out of power at both state and federal levels.

While here, Richards will confer with national party leaders, Democratic campaign officials, and cabinet members. He said he hopes to interest Secretary of Labor Goldberg in planning a program to provide jobs for California defense workers in the event the United States concludes a multilateral disarmament pact.

Ship Unions Join in Safety Program

A voluntary program to combat unsafe labor conditions on the Long Beach-Los Angeles water front is being undertaken jointly by area maritime unions and the U. S. Department of Labor.

The four-point program stressing safety education is aimed at correcting situations which saw 481 disabling injuries among the longshore force in 1961.

Although total injuries were down from 1960 the injury frequency rate rose 11 per cent, according to Anthony O. Mignano, Long Beach district chief for the department's bureau of labor standards.

In the program shipowners and agents are being asked to inspect equipment and working areas for unsafe conditions and to correct them. Longshore unions also are being asked to increase member participation in training programs.

The World Around

RFK Will Meet De Gaulle Today

PARIS (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived here Monday on his "unofficial, private visit" and learned he will meet today with President Charles de Gaulle.

He flew here from a two-day visit to The Hague where he told a news conference that talks with Indonesian and Dutch officials had convinced him both sides are taking an "emotional" rather than a practical approach to their dispute over West New Guinea.

Indonesia is "very anxious to gain control of New Guinea," he said, but has no intention of attacking in the near future. A solution to the New Guinea problem "can only be found by efforts of reasonable people," he said.

100 Families Ousted

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist police evicted 100 East Berlin families from border areas Monday to widen the death zone between East and West. The Reds threw tear gas grenades at Western newsmen observing the event. Residents were forced to help movers carry furniture out of the houses in freezing weather and into vans. The action took place in suburban areas facing the American sector in the south and the French sector in the north.

Mother's Hike Opens Hearts

"People are sure kind."

With these words, Mrs. Mae Sharon Hayes, 20, who last week walked 23 miles to see her hospitalized baby Monday expressed her appreciation of a flood of kindness. Offers of help and cash pour into the home, 1912 W. Burnett St., where happiness now reigns.

The young mother and her Navyman husband, Roland, brought Margurite Mary, 11 months, home Saturday from White Memorial Hospital, Los Angeles, where she had been treated for two weeks for an intestinal ailment.

Mrs. Hayes had only 40 cents in her pocket when she walked to the hospital last Thursday to see the baby. A hospital attache brought her home.

BURGLAR-BASHING pepper-mill is shown by 1-year-old Voni Jo Volkert, safe in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Jewel Volkert, 22, of Santa Ana, who bashed a burglar over the head with the mill, captured a second and chased a third through streets and backyards.

Wife KOs Burglar and Seizes Second

A petite Santa Ana housewife, whose husband describes her as "not afraid of the devil himself," told Monday how she knocked a burglar unconscious, captured a second and terrorized a third in a wild chase over backyard fences.

Mrs. Jewel Volkert, 22, of 2514 W. McFadden St., Apt. C, is only 5 feet, two inches tall. She weighs slightly less than 100 pounds.

But she routed the three burglars with a foot-long wooden pepper-mill and her own natural courage.

MRS. VOLKERT was baby-sitting Sunday night in her apartment with the two children of John Matucci, who lives next door in Apartment D, when she heard noises in the Matucci apartment.

She went to investigate. "I opened the door and there were three men with their arms loaded with loot," she told police. "One of them was carrying a television set."

Beach Combing

AN OLD fire horse answers the call tonight—municipal election night in Long Beach.

Dick Beach, now retired, has handled the vote count at City Hall for these newspapers as long as anybody around here can remember.

He'll reactivate himself tonight to take on the old job. He was in to talk about it all today and had that old light in his eye.

If there's anything Beach loves, it's those figures from the precincts. Especially, when they come in early.

THERE are a lot of interesting stories in the Beach election night lore.

For example, at an election years ago, he discovered that the spy of a radio station was stealing his returns. The spy would get on an extension phone when Beach called the newspaper, and take down the figures as Beach read them to his office.

The figures were read off in order, going right down the ballot. So Beach sent round-about word to the newspaper office that on his next report, he would start at the bottom instead of the top.

The spy got the reversed figures without knowing, making the next radio report a pretty wild affair.

WHILE local people are voting today on a number of good new proposals, there's another already authorized project that promises great things for the not too distant future.

City Atty. Gerald Desmond was in Washington on legal business the other day and had opportunity to discuss Long Beach's Naval Maritime Museum with some top Navy people.

Among these was Adm. E. M. Eller, director of naval history, who voiced warm interest.

Desmond explained to Eller that the museum is a part of that portion of the shoreline plan for which voters have already authorized use of tidelands funds. Further, the State Lands Commission has now approved in principal the use of $5 million for preparation of the site in front of the central area of the city. Approval is expected later of additional millions for construction and furnishing the museum structure.

Adm. Eller commented that the project would probably be one of the finest of the kind in the country and he suggested the city formally request the Navy to begin accumulation of suitable items for display in the museum.

It seems there are many valuable treasures in Washington but space for displaying them is inadequate. Much of this material could be made available to Long Beach to help build up a comprehensive, permanent exhibit in our new maritime history.

This establishment could be really great. Desmond came home all warmed up about it.

DRIFTWOOD — Reader C. Laruent asks if there is any way highway dividing lines can be made more visible on rainy nights. None to my knowledge, unless we light them up. Anybody got any ideas? ... Taxicab driver reports that on Tuesday, Feb. 20, he had two elderly ladies as fares who were talking about the heavy rain-fall then occurring. They remarked to him that it was fine Astronaut Glenn landed "before all this rain started coming down." ... Ed Koester of Douglas, who was witness of a hole-in-one recently at Lakewood Country Club, got one himself Sunday. He did it with a four-iron on the fourth hole.

They guarded the unconscious Blackburn and the chagrined Jones, while Mrs. Volkert chased the third burglar.

ABOUT a block away, the terrified burglar stopped to bang on the door of a home, yelling, "Let me in, let me in! Somebody's chasing me!"

But at this point, Mrs. Volkert rounded the corner, and the burglar gave up hope of refuge in the home and beat it up the street again.

The little housewife chased him through a backyard. He went over a fence. She went over the fence, too.

At a second fence, the burglar turned to make a stand.

"I STOPPED in my tracks and I ailed back with the pepper-mill," Mrs. Volkert recalled.

The burglar thought better of the thing, and went over the fence and up an alley. At this point, Mrs. Volkert lost him.

Jones and Blackburn were booked at Orange County Jail on suspicion of burglary, and Mrs. Volkert went back to baby-sitting.

JUDGE'S ORDER Gaming Fund Goes to Girl

Municipal Judge J. Merrill Lilley Monday ordered $183 seized in a Signal Hill gambling raid be handed to a 6-year-old hospitalized girl—for whom the gambling benefit was being staged.

Five persons, who Signal Hill police said were dealers and cashiers at a gambling benefit Saturday night at 869 Walton St., pleaded guilty to gambling charges.

Given three years probation and ordered to pay $52.50 in fines each were: Vernon C. Smith, 34, of 11241 Martha Ann Drive, Los Alamitos; Alexander B. Buchan, 59, of 4119 Pixie Ave., Lakewood; Ralph R. Gilbreath, 38, of 3039 Ocala St.; John William Lynn Jr., 37, of 3802 N. Lees Ave., and Margaret Eleanor McJilton, 42, of 3125 Lomina Ave.

Although the girl, in Memorial Hospital with a serious tumor, got the money, Judge Lilley ordered the Signal Hill Police Department to keep the confiscated dice table, three blackjack tables, dice, cards and chips.

'61 Profit Confirmed by Douglas

Douglas Aircraft Co. Monday issued its 1961 report in a 34-page booklet.

The annual report confirmed figures released earlier this year on last year's profit.

The company showed a net profit of $5,957,000, $1.56 a share, in 1961. In 1960, the company lost $19,429,000 or $5.09 a share.

The 1961 profit was the first full-year profit enjoyed by the company since 1958.

Mansell's Efforts Fail in Bus Row

City officials Monday again failed to break a company-union deadlock that threatens to result in a bus strike April 1.

City Manager John R. Mansell and Chief Engineer Henry E. Jordan of the Bureau of Franchises met privately with representatives of Pacific City Lines, the management affiliate of Long Beach Motor Bus Co., and the Amalgamated Transportation Union.

No substantial progress has been made in the negotiations toward a settlement of a wage dispute and other issues.

Water Injection Hiked in Oil Field

Enough water to fill all the inner- and outer-harbor area of Long Beach has been injected into the harbor oil field as an antislides measure, M. D. Hughes, port petroleum and subsidence control director, reported Monday.

Hughes said the rate of water injection has passed 500,000 barrels daily and will rapidly be pushed toward one million barrels daily.

The increased rate, he said, was brought about by the signing of unitization agreements for Fault Block IV late last year. Total amount of water injected is more than 430 million barrels—enough to flood 1,000 acres to a depth of 55 feet.

Subsidence has been stopped in more than three-fourths of the harbor area.

As the injection rate climbs in this Fault Block IV area, the last small pocket of sub-

Estate Broke; No Child

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

Rosalie Asher, attorney for notorious criminal Caryl Chessman—who was executed in San Quentin May 2, 1960, for sex crimes—"closed the book" on his story Monday by revealing:

1. Caryl Chessman had no daughter.

2. He died in a state of bankruptcy. Claims against him are more than 10 times the amount of his $6,000 estate.

3. His ashes have been buried in an unmarked grave in a small Northern California cemetery.

4. Nobody will buy his unpublished manuscripts.

Miss Asher thus disposed of the last mysteries that shrouded the Chessman case—a raging controversy in California for 12 years.

In an exclusive interview with The Independent, Press-Telegram, the Sacramento attorney said:

"We conducted an extensive investigation of the stories that appeared, after his execution, that he had a daughter, then supposed to be 17. Our investigations went so far as to locate the girl and her mother, who were indicated in some stories as being his former wife and his child.

"The stories almost ruined this woman's marriage. But she established, to our complete satisfaction, that her daughter was not the child of Caryl Chessman. There were no orders from Caryl to provide for any child after his death, as some stories said. No claims were made against his estate in behalf of any supposed child."

WHEN Chessman was executed, as the vicious "Red Light Bandit" of Los Angeles, many stories appeared declaring he was the father of a girl.

Of Chessman's financial affairs, Miss Asher said: "For the past two years, some royalties from his books have been trickling in to the estate, in diminishing amounts. When he died, his estate was valued at about $1,000.

"The claims against the estate are about 10 times that amount (the $6,000). We are trying to reach a final figure, so that we can prorate the available money against these claims."

The claims include her own bill of $34,800 for legal services, a bill from San Francisco attorney George Davis for $20,000, a bill from Los Angeles attorney A. L. Wirin, another from a private investigator and another from a handwriting expert.

"THE ROYALTIES from his books are dwindling fast, there is little hope of more money there," she said.

"He left behind him six unpublished manuscripts. His agent has been unable to interest anyone in buying or printing them."

Of Chessman's burial, Miss Asher said: "I have deliberately withheld the name of the cemetery."

"We have two problems there. One, we are afraid that vandals will desecrate the grave; the other, that mistaken hero-worshippers will make it a sort of shrine. We want neither. He is entitled, at least, to obscurity."

Chessman stayed off the gas chamber for 12 years, in a series of appeals that frequently went to the United States Supreme Court. His execution was accompanied by protests from almost every nation in the world, and he died maintaining his innocence.

ADM. HOWARD YEAGER First Speaker

Ex-Navy Officers to Be Briefed

Retired senior naval officers in the Long Beach area will be kept abreast of Navy developments with a series of briefings by top commanders, Rear Adm. Kenneth L. Veth, Terminal Island Naval Base commander, announced Monday.

Speaker at the first meeting Wednesday, after a dinner at the Naval Base will be Vice Adm. Howard A. Yeager, commander, Amphibious Force, Pacific Fleet.

RESPONSE from invitations sent to 99 admirals and 248 captains on the retired list in the area indicate that the majority plan to attend, Adm. Veth said.

Purpose of the briefings, conceived by the local base commander, is to keep retired officers up to date on latest developments in naval warfare and to strengthen bonds between them and active officers.

"The retired naval officer is a leader in business and community affairs," Veth said. "We believe that talks on current projects will up-date the naval knowledge of retired officers and better enable them to continue to promote welfare of the Navy from their positions in civilian life."

Illegal Operation Trial Nears Jury

Dep. Dist. Atty. John Marin Monday called for a second-degree murder verdict in the trial here over the disappearance of expectant mother Delores Mae Siddal, 29, of 737 Redondo Ave.

Addict, 21, Shifted to L.A. Court

A Superior Court narcotics treatment hearing was ordered Monday for Virgil Eugene Tollefson, 21, convicted of narcotics addiction in the case involving the heroin overdose death of a Lakewood youth.

Superior Judge Maurice Sparling transferred Tollefson to Superior Court No. 95 in Los Angeles, where all hearings are held for addicts enrolled in the state's new narcotics-treatment program.

Tollefson, of 6128 Yearling Ave., Lakewood, helped finance purchase of heroin for Donald King Compton, 19, who died after an overdose of narcotics last Oct. 28.

Joe Castanon, 20, of Los Angeles, who supplied the heroin, was sentenced last week to five years to life in prison for second-degree murder.

Printers Endorse L.B. Ballot Issues

All propositions and measures on the Long Beach ballot today have the endorsement of the Printing Trade Association of Long Beach, president Nicholas W. Edwards announced.

"We don't have to produce a body," Marin said.

In concluding arguments, Marin told jurors: "We have presented such evidence that she was abducted and is dead from it. . . . If a girl dies from a criminal abortion, it is second-degree murder."

FINAL ARGUMENTS of the defense are to be heard today after Marin winds up his concluding statement. The case is expected to go to the jury Wednesday or Thursday.

Hugh M. Pheaster, 28, and Thomas F. Cicarelli, 47, are accused of murdering Mrs. Siddal, who vanished Aug. 23 allegedly after undergoing illegal surgery to end her pregnancy.

Marin pictured Mrs. Siddal as a "loving mother" who wouldn't leave her three children voluntarily. The prosecutor also stressed that when Mrs. Siddal vanished she had only the clothes on her back and her purse.

PHEASTER, WHO admits three abortions; Cicarelli, and Conrad Couch, 34, also are on trial for abortion and conspiracy to commit abortion. An attempted-abortion count further is lodged against Pheaster, purported abortion ringleader, and Couch.

The trial, which opened Jan. 22 in Superior Judge Beach Vasey's court, is into its sixth week.

Parade for a Hero

IT WAS A RAINY DAY in Washington, D.C., yesterday, but nothing could blot out the sunshine that had broken through the cloudy skies of the space contest with Russia.

Astronaut John Glenn Jr., a brilliant and courageous American of 40, rode through the rain-spattered streets in the aura of success.

Dressed, symbolically, in civilian clothes rather than in military uniform, Glenn spoke before a joint meeting of the Senate and House and stressed the peaceful nature of the mission he had accomplished.

He noted, as he was justified in doing, the publicity which attended his flight as compared with the secrecy surrounding "similar programs conducted elsewhere in the world"—meaning, of course, in the Soviet Union.

The thorough and extensive reporting of the event was an achievement in public relations equal to the scientific achievement, itself. Although the Russians have put two men in orbit, their achievements were reported in both cases after the fact. It is the American shot whose details, whose drama, have touched the world with a realism and warmth as human as the smile of John Glenn, himself.

If the United States wants to score still another coup, the perfect way to do so is to send Col. Glenn on another trip around the world, this time by more conventional means, to meet and talk with the millions to whom he has become the heroic American of modern times.

'Election' in Bulgaria

HOW COMMUNISM PRESERVES the forms of democratic procedure while operating a governmental system which is at best an oligarchy has been demonstrated once again by the "election" in Communist Bulgaria.

Americans, accustomed to a ballot offering a choice between two candidates and providing a space for the writing-in of any other name the voter might prefer, would have found the Bulgarian affair rather novel.

When Bulgarian voters went to the polls Sunday, they were presented with a single list of candidates. The list contained all the major Communists of Bulgaria.

Voters did not have the problem of choosing among the candidates of this list.

Since no Communist candidates were opposed, the question was simply one of approval.

Imagine that in the 1960 election Americans had found only Democrats on their Congressional ballots, and you will get a picture of "democracy" as practiced behind the iron curtain. Americans have been fretting lately about the moral problems involved in political campaign funds.

The Communists, it seems, have found the perfect solution to the problem of campaign contributions.

No competition, therefore no campaign, and thus no need for political funds.

Immunity for Nobody

THE ESCAPE OF Vincente Rubiera Feito, former head of the Cuban Telephone Workers Federation, from Cuba to the United States emphasizes a point which American liberals and conservatives sometimes forget in their political arguments.

The point is that communism is not really a subject of dispute between conservatives and liberals. Under communism they both come to the same end. Feito, the liberal labor leader, is no more satisfied with Castro's regime than is the conservative manager of one of the confiscated businesses. Both have ended up disenfranchised and exiled. Neither enjoyed immunity. The freedom of expression which nourished both liberalism and conservatism in Cuba has been crushed.

The lesson is so obvious that it hardly need be stated. Instead of fighting among themselves, conservatives and liberals must join together in opposition to the common enemy. If they do not, one day they may wake up to discover they haven't the right to speak at all.

Voice of America Gaining More Respect in Congress

WASHINGTON—The Voice of America ate its 20th birthday cake Monday and had it, too.

Its transmitters were describing Astronaut Glenn's conquest of the capital, another glorious chapter in the truth about America, while President Kennedy was handing out slices of warm congratulations to the agency. A good time was had by all.

It was not always thus. The same congresses which authorized an international broadcasting network to tell America's story abroad with a promise that "we will tell the truth" have frequently taxed VOA with jesting Pilate's famous question, "What is truth?"

The answers they stayed for did not always please them, nor did the administration of the agency. A recent and rowdy example was the hassle between the then Senate majority leader, Vice President Johnson, and Eisenhower information aid Edward Larson.

THINGS have been quieter lately, contradicting some observers who sniffed potential conflict in Kennedy's choice of the outspoken, imaginative television commentator, Edward R. Murrow, to head the Information agency of which VOA is part. To achieve this Murrow has accepted some political limitations with good grace, while Congress is becoming more sophisticated about the uses of propaganda.

Among the birthday bouquets tossed at the Voice was the suggestion of Federal Communications Chairman Minow that it could well be used to ameliorate that vast TV wasteland he criticized. At least, Minow said, it might be made available to educational television.

THESE roses were gratefully received but cautiously fielded by old hands who had felt the thorns of past encounters in the political propaganda field.

Congress has never wanted USIA, including the Voice, to propagandize Americans; indeed, it forbids it with some few exceptions. It is natural that Congress should, whatever its political complexion, be wary of executive activity of this kind. Much past criticism, incidentally, was less along party lines than a matter of ideological vision.

The trade unions also have done their part to keep USIA and the Voice strictly for export. They protest it would put their members in competition with too much free talent.

VOA OFFICIALS point out that British officials do not criticize the overseas doing of the British Broadcasting Company but accept it, warts and all, as a patriotic operation loyal to king and country. They recognize that total restraint would be a lot to ask here.

Meanwhile they are plenty busy under Director Henry Loomis, broadcasting in 36 languages a total of 716 hours a week. Using 87 transmitters here and abroad, the Voice speaks with power equal in strength to that of more than 200 top commercial stations, and more projects are on the way. The new wattage will improve the VOA signal in Latin America, Africa, Russia and the Near East.

New Power Commissioner Named in Chicago Scandal

WASHINGTON — Buried in the dusty files of the Archives Building in Washington is an amazing record regarding Harold Woodward of Chicago, Republican, nominated by the President to the Federal Power Commission.

Eisenhower appointments to the Power Commission came in for criticism by this column because they favored the oil and gas industries which they are supposed to regulate. What these commissioners decide affects the gas bills of millions of housewives, of industry, and millions of electricity users.

Kennedy also criticized Ike's appointments to the Federal Power Commission during the election campaign, and has now appointed two excellent men, Joseph Swidler and Howard Morgan, plus one Texas oilman, Lawrence O'Connor, Jr.

His fourth appointee, an Illinois Public Utilities Commissioner, was involved in one of the worst federal judicial scandals in Chicago history.

THE DUSTY records in the Archives Building show that the House Judiciary Committee voted 15 to 5 to impeach his father, U.S. District Judge Charles Woodward, for giving a long list of bankruptcy cases to the law firm in which his son was employed and from which his son directly benefited.

His son Harold, now nominated for the Federal Power Commission, had his salary jumped from $3,000 to $13,000 in one year.

In testimony before the House Judiciary Committee, Harold Woodward stated "that, of the bankruptcy business brought in by him, 60 per cent was turned over to the firm and he was to retain 40 per cent."

THIS WAS the depression period under Hoover when business firms and banks were closing all over Chicago and bankruptcy fees came in in such volume—a total of $225,889.89—that the senior partners of young Woodward's law firm, Loucks, Eckert, and Peterson, quarreled over them and the top partner got out.

"Eckert," according to the dusty record of the Judiciary Committee, "claimed credit for the business that came in from Judge Woodward and charged himself with the salary and commissions of Harold Woodward (the judge's son)."

In other words, the man now appointed to the federal Power Commission had a direct deal to profit from his father's judicial actions on the U.S. district court.

ASKED about this by my associate, Jack Anderson, Woodward said he had "repented" and that the Chicago Bar Association had cleared him.

The House Committee, however, did not clear him. It reported:

"Our investigation discloses a condition in Chicago that amounts almost to criminal negligence... an apparent willing asset to the plundering and sacking of the estate committee... an absolute, utter disregard for the rights of the creditors."

"Equity receiverships and bankruptcy matters have degenerated into nothing more or less than a pure, simple racket," the Judiciary Committee found.

"The testimony of Mr. Harold Woodward, son of Judge Woodward," the committee continued, "shows that since his father was appointed to the federal bench he appeared in 31 bankruptcy cases and previous to that time had not appeared in bankruptcy cases."

THE RECORD also shows that the new Power Commissioner did not tell the truth when testifying before the Judiciary Committee. He was asked: "You told your father about your increase in salary?"

"No," was the reply.

"You did not tell him anything about that?"

"Possibly afterward, but they were long afterward. I never discuss my intimate personal affairs with my father."

His father, however, testified just the opposite.

Asked about his son's employment, he replied: "I knew he was employed by that firm, first at a very modest salary, and later I knew his salary was increased, because at first he asked money from me, and later he told me his salary had been materially increased."

"DURING the times they were increased you had knowledge of that?" the judge was asked.

"I had knowledge that they were very materially increased; yes," was the reply.

Asked by this column about practicing law on the side while serving as Assistant Commerce Commissioner, Woodward admitted this was true, but said he had refused to accept any cases during that period. Whether he was telling the truth this time might be difficult to ascertain.

Don't Persuade Too Positively

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A few weeks ago, on that splendid television program, "At Random," I listened to a man who seemed to be more or less a spokesman for one of the new African governments.

He was most plausible—quick, ready with facts; eloquent, smoothly reasonable and unfailingly courteous. Yet I was suspicious of him the moment he opened his mouth, and the more he talked, the more I distrusted what he said.

Curiously enough, in the delicate art of persuasion, there is such a thing as being too persuasive. And this is precisely where "official spokesmen" usually fail—they have what mother used to call "a plaster for every sore."

HARRIS An honest person, with a mind that is not entirely closed, will never seem so fully rounded in defense of his position. There are gaps in his thought; there are facts he does not have available; there are flaws that he is willing to admit; there are points he will permit the other side to score.

BUT THE PROPAGANDIST is smooth as a pebble, without a crack in his armor—and this, which seems to be his strength, is really his weakness.

We are not, ultimately, persuaded by someone who seems to have all the right on his side. We know that life is not that simple, that justice does not reside exclusively on one side of a fence, that no group (like no individual) is merely an innocent bystander in conflict and dissension.

Some months before, I heard another official spokesman, this time for the United Arab Republic. It is my own view that both the Arabs and Israelis have made some serious mistakes and have committed offenses against basic morality. But the more plausibly he defended his own position, the more I swung over to the other side. Nobody, I thought, could be that right.

WE INSTINCTIVELY recognize fairness and the groping for painful honesty on the part of a speaker. We are much more likely to believe a man who stumbles a little; who is at times frankly embarrassed by any inconsistency in his reasoning; who is unafraid to display the chinks in his argument; and who freely lets the cool air of differences ventilate his mind.

Rabid partisans, of course, cannot do this; the Communists have all the answers typed, immovably and eternally; so have their opposite numbers, the John Birchers and company. And neither of these extremists can ever win an argument (or a country) on reason or logic; the Communists win on hunger, and the Fascists win on fear and frustration.

It is when the propagandist seems most plausible and most unassailable in his facts and inferences that we know we are not listening to a Man but to a Line—and a Line is always a Lie.

Burial Already Taking Place?

EDITOR:

Nikita Khrushchev said that famous quotation: "We shall bury you." And I'm afraid he was right.

In Latin America the percentage of communism is augmenting every day. In Mexico there is an educational revolution going on. In Monterrey, Mexico, Gov. Lino is changing the school system. Schools will have only one textbook and teachers will not take part in the making of this book. The government will decide what should be taught to the children. Parents will not take part in this matter either; they will not have the freedom to choose the education for their children. Private schools will give classes in the morning for the rich pupils, and in the afternoon classes will be given for the poor. The rector of the university in Monterrey, S. Alvarado, is a Communist, and is trying to make all kinds of changes in the university.

HUNGER and poverty make a wonderful soil for growing communism. What is happening to all the millions that Latin America receives each year from the U. S.? The rich are getting richer and the poor poorer.

We are buying "presidents" and dictators, instead of freedom for the people. If the people were well fed and clothed we wouldn't have to spend so much in foreign aid, and we wouldn't have to fight so hard for democracy. People would be happy and wouldn't pay attention to Communist leaders. We are giving aid to the wrong people.

I ASKED a political science teacher, "Why don't we help the people directly, with things they need, instead of giving cash to their governments?" He answered, "Because in order to get to the people, we have to have the permission of their government first, and many countries won't let us." Then, if we cannot get to the people, how come Communists can? I should say that we have more rights, with all the aid that they receive from us.

"Rub out" the pain fast with sub-surface warmth
Mustero's a must for the comfort you require to sleep all night.

When a cold settles in your chest, you need more relief than mere internal medications can supply. You need direct-action medication... to bring sub-surface warmth to the affected area, fast. You need all the multiple benefits of Mustero.

1. Eases tightness by stimulating flow of warm healing blood to the painful area. Helps to "flush out" the local congestion you feel.

2. Relieves pain by action of salicylates, and anesthetic effect on nerves. In addition, Mustero speeds tension-relaxing comfort because of its modern "mustard-plaster" type of warmth.

3. Checks coughing and frees breathing, as the medicated vapors soothe throat and open passages in head and upper bronchial tubes.

Mustero's exclusive formula of 3 pain-relieving ingredients thus helps you—or your child—get needed rest and sleep. Also wonderful for stiff sore aching muscles; and for the temporary relief of minor pains of rheumatism and arthritis.

Stainless. Comes in three strengths: Child's Mild (extra gentle), Regular, Extra Strong. Save on large size.

"You name it, Mustero's pleasant counter-irritant action."

Get the rub that's "GOT IT!"

'Nothing to Wear' Plaint Proved

There's official vindication for the woman who views her bulging closet and laments, "I haven't a thing to wear!"

After a 2½-year study, textile and fashion experts have established "life expectancy" ratings for clothes, says Insider's Newsletter.

The ratings for 103 clothing items were compiled in a National Fair Claims Adjustment Guide for Consumer Textile Products and is being used by textile producers, distributors, retailers, dry cleaners and laundries as basis for claims by clothing customers.

Some findings: A man's business suit will last four years, his wife's street dress, two; his formal wear is good for five years, her high fashion cocktail dress is "dead" after three; his silk lounging robe will give three years of wear, her negligee only two.

For truly-dramatic relief of Chest Cold soreness

"Rub out" the pain fast with sub-surface warmth

Mustero's a must for the comfort you require to sleep all night.

"The Better Packaging Advisory Council surveyed 8,756 women shoppers by mail, asked them (1) if they felt misled by packaging; (2) if so, what they did about it. The results: 69 per cent said they had indeed been misled—and estimated their losses at a hefty $39 a year.

"How they paid back manufacturers: About 44 per cent passed the bad word about Brand Y along to friends, 38 per cent returned the package, 3 per cent wrote angry letters to the company, 2 per cent sent their gripe to the Better Business Bureau and 1 per cent tattled to the U. S. government. Presumably, the other 12 per cent just grinned and bore it."

THE NEWSLETTER recommends to Europe-bound travelers a new book by the Temple Fieldings, "Selective Shopping Guide to Europe" (Sloane: $1.95).

The author and his wife (known for their "Fielding's Travel Guide to Europe") give advice which will let you come home with quality

JUST CALL them the speedy Viets. Hank Viets called wife, Helen, just before noon last Thursday and casually asked her if she'd like to fly to Hawaii. Not just anytime, mind you, but the next afternoon at 5. Not just the two of them, mind you, but "why not take our mothers, too," says Henry.

After a couple of gulps Helen gave an enthusiastic okay. It was an easy chore to round up Mrs. H. L. Viets (who inferred she could have been ready in half the time if necessary), but Helen's mother, Mrs. E. T. Borden, was another matter. She lives in Portland, Ore.

A long distance call soon cleared that hurdle and Mrs. B., thrilled to the marrow at the idea, said she'd catch a plane and meet them in Honolulu. To her it wasn't just a trip to Hawaii—but to the Elysian Field.

Adding to the fun of the jaunt is the fact that they'll meet Henry's sister, Louise Frisby, whose South Pacific cruise will have her in Hawaii to coincide with the others' visit.

The all-cotton shirts take to home dyeing like a whiz, and colors are true and clear. Synthetic fibers are more difficult to home-dye and some, such as Dacron, may be impossible to dye satisfactorily at home. If your old shirts, like mine, are the garden variety white cotton, you won't have any trouble getting the tint, light or dark, you want.

DO-IT-YOURSELF PROJECT: Face Lift for Dad's Shirts

KAY SHERWOOD, NEA

What to do with the "perfectly good" clothes that are no longer wearable as-is? Some may have a more interesting future than that of the rummage sale table if you're willing to experiment with home dyes and simple sewing.

A good example is your husband's old shirt. If the collar and cuffs are frayed, he'll consider the shirt "old" even though the body fabric is in A-1 condition. My spouse, thrusting such shirts at me, muttered something about turning them into smocks for the children.

Well, the saturation point for kindergarten painting smocks is reached rather rapidly when you have only one child in kindergarten and she objects strongly to flapping around in her father's shirt.

With four "perfectly good" shirts on my hands, I was a push-over for some timely suggestions for what to do with them. The suggestions come from the Tintex color council, which I had consulted about the home-dyeability of certain fabrics.

The all-cotton shirts take to home dyeing like a whiz, and colors are true and clear. Synthetic fibers are more difficult to home-dye and some, such as Dacron, may be impossible to dye satisfactorily at home. If your old shirts, like mine, are the garden variety white cotton, you won't have any trouble getting the tint, light or dark, you want.

lar, neckband and sleeves. Turn the shirt backward, and take in sides under arms to fit. Turn up the shirttails to make pockets in front. Bind neck, armholes and pockets with fringe, bias tape or decorative binding.

You can go one step further and "print" a pattern on the fabric with concentrated dye mixtures. This pattern-printing technique can be used for many types of articles. For this, mix fabric dye in one or more different colors in a small pan using only one cup of water (very hot water.)

PLACE shirt flat on the table and stuff with several layers of newspaper so dye will not soak through and mark the back of the shirt. Use a one-half-inch-wide paint brush and paint on the free-form pattern. Paint over pattern a second time to be sure the dye seeps into fabric. Let dry.

Another shirt conversion trick turns it into a short nightie for yourself or a teen-age daughter. Dye the shirt first.

(Incidentally, dyeing a single shirt or two is a simple matter, and should be done by hand rather than in the washing machine.)

After the shirt has dried, remove collar and cuffs or sleeves (if you want a short-sleeved gown).

Hem sleeves and gather with elastic band. Edge sleeves, each side of button tab, neck band and shirttails with eyelet ruffling two inches wide.

Similar changes can turn a shirt into a pagoda-red mandarin jacket with "frog" closings instead of buttons and short, elbow-length sleeves trimmed with wide embroidered red tape. Make a wide tape banding for the neckline, too.

Too Old Too Soon

It was startling, the other day, to see a teen-ager (early teens, by the way) wearing a bouffant hairdo that would have been perfect for a woman of 35. It was puffy, sophisticated and ridiculous on the youngster.

Even though she was 13 or 14, it contrived to make her look far older. It was out of place, to say the least, with a storm coat, flat-heeled shoes and a pile of school books.

MOST teen-agers would like to look sophisticated, it's true, but some of them are so eager to appear older that they are actually passing up the teen years for a sort of premature aging. This doesn't make much sense.

In the teen years, a girl can wear her hair simply, keep it clean and shining and appear a beauty. Back-combing, sprays and elaborate hairdos are all wrong for her—and in poor taste.

Foundation to Benefit

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will be sponsored as the main project of the National Federation of Grandmothers Clubs of America this year.

Announcement of the plan to aid the foundation was made recently by Hallie Bridges, 2255 Pacific Ave., national secretary of the 700 clubs and 20,000 members of the organization.

Mrs. Bridges said that the clubs of grandmothers in this area will join the national movement to urge public financial support of the annual campaign to raise funds with which to carry on the arthritis medical research program.

SHE SAID that grandmothers, being among the most susceptible persons to contract arthritis (three times as many women have arthritis as men) form the most logical group of citizens to volunteer their efforts to help find a cure for the nation's number one crippler.

To-date, medical science has not found the cause or cure of the disease and funds are necessary to help push medical research on the subject.

OUR CHILDREN

Adjusted Discipline Weathers 'No' Stage

By ANGELO PATRI

A mother writes. "We have an only child just two years of age. She has very regular habits and I have brought her up according to the doctor's schedule and she has always been in perfect health. But I find it difficult to correct her. If I say 'no,' she just looks at me and continues doing what I have told her not to do.

"If I punish her by having her sit in a chair I have to hold her there. When that's over, she will do the same thing over again. She slaps at me when I feed her. I whip her and she isn't frightened a bit. And she is very jealous of me around her father and pushes me away. Tell me how I can deal with her."

THE CHILD is at an age when personality begins to sprout. She has come to the place where "me" comes first. She insists on standing on her own stubborn little feet. "Who are you to tell me what to do?" The right answer is not easily come by. Think a little, look ahead, sense the kind of a woman she will in time be. That thought will make you feel surer of what you say and what you do. For your mind will not be too heavy on the child you think you have, but on the lovely woman she will one day be.

A two-year-old has more thoughts than speech to express them. Just now what she feels is far more important than what she does. Reconditioning that feeling is not so easy. The child's "no" may be just a protest against being bossed. If that is so, try giving fewer orders, try suggestion, avoid making her an antagonist.

Be sure to suggest things which are safe for the child to choose. Sharing is a basic need. It touches and heals us all.

MAYBE the thing to do is to ignore the "no." "Very well, you need not," and then busy yourself about your own chores. The less the child feels your personality pressing upon her, the more ready will she be to follow you.

When she slaps, take the child to the bathroom, hold her hands firmly and wash them. Cold water and a calm, sure hand are soothing.

Ease the way. Trust the child; have confidence in yourself. Adjust the discipline to the needs of the moment and be guided by the thought that someday the "no" will be what it should: a repulse to evil, an affirmation of goodness.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By SYLVANUS AND EVELYN DUVALL

1. He's a born spend-thrift! Wrong. He may throw his resources away foolishly. Money may burn holes in his pockets. But he was not born that way. People learn their money habits. Those of us who grew up through the Great Depression learned to save and scrimp. Today's young people who have known only good times may seem like spend-thrifts by comparison. But both generations have learned to respond to the circumstances in which they grew up—just as individuals do.

2. Which wives have more trouble with their men "running around?"

You guessed it — city wives, and for understandable reasons. The city man can easily go where he is not known. In a rural community, everybody knows everybody else. Farm people come in contact with fewer "temptations." In the city, husbands and wives are usually separated by their work, and therefore have more opportunities for philandering. The city man (or wife) often enjoys a separate social life with business associates. The differences are probably differences in opportunities, rather than in morals.

Oswald Jacoby Problems for South

Today's hand was played in a sectional tournament early last year. Every North player opened one diamond and all the South players had a problem.

Some settled for a three no-trump response and hoped that their partners either did not hold three aces or, if they held three aces, would be able to find a further bid. Others responded with a Blackwood four no-trump. Then when North bid five hearts to show two aces South would bid five spades, whereupon North would close the bidding at five no-trump. Unfortunately for these players five no-trump turned out to be one trick too high. Either a spade or a club opening would hold South to ten tricks.

THE NEW gadget that I discussed yesterday would have enabled South to make his move and stop at a safe four no-trump.

How do you ask for kings with this convention? The next higher bid asks for kings. Thus, after North bid four hearts to show two aces, South could bid four spades if he wanted to find out about kings. Any other bid by South would place the final contract.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Anti-Cancer Drugs Need Re-Evaluation

By BEN ZINSER

Doctors may have to change their concept of drug treatment of cancer on the basis of a new finding by government medical researchers. Animal experiments at the National Cancer Institute have just shown that substantially less blood flows through tumors than had been suspected. The researchers say that less than 5 percent of any anticancer drug makes it to the malignant area.

Thus the effectiveness of cancer-fighting drugs may have to be re-evaluated. The dose received by a tumor in a single treatment may be too small.

The U. S. Public Health Service, in announcing the finding, said that blood-flow readings were uniform regardless of the size, type or location of the tumor.

THE RESEARCH finding implies that doctors will have to give larger doses of anticancer drugs to control tumor growth.

But before this can be done, doctors will have to find a way to counteract the undesirable systemic effects often produced by large doses of anticancer drugs. These drugs are usually highly toxic.

Despite this finding the Public Health Service says that in cases where surgery and radiation don't cure cancer, the use of drugs offers "one of the brightest prospects for better control of malignant diseases."

Rues Her Hasty Marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: You are the only one I can turn to for help with this problem, so please don't let me down.

My boy friend (I'll call him Pete) and I went to my parents and asked for their permission to marry. They said absolutely not because Pete had nothing saved and only a summer job. We couldn't wait, so we drove over the state line and got a Justice of the Peace to marry us. We have been married nine weeks and now I realize I made a bad mistake. Pete is mean to me. He runs around and says it's none of my business what he does. He is not the boy I thought he was. Please, please, help me out of this mess before I do something to myself. Pete is 20 and I am 17.—DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Tell your parents the whole story immediately. They are the only ones who love you enough to help you.

DEAR ABBY: Your letter from the girl who was ridiculed and called a "religious fanatic" because she refused to take showers naked in the gym with other girls, has my sympathy. I am glad you stood up for her, Abby. I wish someone had stood up for me 17 years ago when I had the same problem. When I was 15, I was much more matured than most of my classmates. I was terribly self-conscious about it and refused to get into the showers naked unless the gym teacher got in, too. She wouldn't do it, so I wouldn't. I flunked gym. I could not graduate because I had no gym credit. But if I had it to do over again, I wouldn't do any different.—MODEST

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and the boy I like is 19. When my mother met him, she took a dislike to him right away because she said he didn't "look like" my religion. I don't look like my religion, and neither does my brother, but that doesn't seem to make any impression on my mother. My boy friend told me he WAS of my religion and I believe him. I don't want to insult him by asking him to prove it.

Please, tell me how to get my mother to believe me, and let me go out with him.—NOT BELIEVED

DEAR NOT: If he is telling the truth, he should have no objections to telling you his clergyman's name. That would be easy to check and would not be an insult.

HR Trio Nearing '400 Club'

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duke Snider, Mickey Mantle and Eddie Mathews are good bets to hammer their way into baseball's exclusive "400-home" club in 1962.

If they all make it, three in a year would be a phenomenal record. Only six other sluggers in all of baseball history have belted more than 400 home runs in a major league lifetime. Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals (444) is the only one still active.

But the way the cards are stacked in '62 the three modern maulers knocking on the door all stand an excellent chance of joining the club with Mantle a virtual shoe-in.

Snider needs 16, Mantle 28 and Mathews 30. All three matched or bettered those totals last season.

Despite an injury, Snider walloped 16 in only 85 games for the Dodgers last year and while he has been around for 15 seasons he's far from washed up at 35.

Mantle clouted 54 for the New York Yankees as he and Roger Maris mounted their assault on Babe Ruth's record. Mathews hit 32 for the Milwaukee Braves. Both Mantle and Mathews are 30, close to their peak years.

EDDIE MATHEWS Near "Exclusive Club"

IN THE LOWER ECHELONS, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs (298) is a cinch to make the "300 club" while Roy Cleverson of the Philadelphia Phillies (270) has an outside chance in his first National League campaign. Roy hit 27 for the Chicago White Sox in '61.

The big parade is led by Ruth (714), Jimmy Foxx (534), Ted Williams (521), Mel Ott (511), Lou Gehrig (493) and Musial at 444.

Musial isn't likely to take over the No. 5 spot from Gehrig since Stan The Man intends to make this his final go-round and at his current pace it would take him at least three seasons to match Gehrig's total.

However, the alltime list figures to get a bit of shaking up down the line with Mantle, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets, maybe Yogi Berra of the Yankees, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Banks likely to make important strides up.

Snider, seventh on the alltime list with 384 is 10 ahead of Mantle and 14 ahead of Mathews. Either or both the younger sluggers could move ahead of the Duke in the standings.

Hodges, now tied for 11th with Joe DiMaggio at 361, needs only one round-tripper to drop DiMag to No. 12 and only nine to grab 10th place from Ralph Kiner.

BERRA (340) MIGHT TAKE 13TH place from Johnny Mize (359) and Mays needs only a dozen to overtake 15th place Hank Greenberg (331). Banks, 20th on the alltime list, can pass Al Simmons, Rogers Hornsby and Chuck Klein if he hits 10.

If you're wondering where Maris is in all this you'll have to look way down the list. Despite his record 61 last season, Roger has only 158 for his major league career. His average is 50 per year for the last two seasons and he would have to keep it up for three more years to get into the "300 club."

That's enough to point up what an achievement it would be—even in a homer-hitting era—for Snider, Mantle and Mathews to make it to 400 in the same campaign.

GREATEST OF 'EM ALL It's Definite-- Parry Quits

By JOHN DIXON

The greatest track and field athlete of our era has retired. Parry O'Brien surrendered Monday. "It's definite—I'll never throw the shotput again."

O'Brien has "retired" before, but a recent deficiency of workout time and the recent efficiency of his opponents lends credence to his declaration.

O'Brien was not always a symbol of the best in sports, but the sporting world will be poorer for his loss.

At Santa Monica High and early in his USC weight-throwing career, he was just another guy. But he parlayed intellectual acrobatics and a monstrous pride into two Olympic Games championships and more records than Babe Ruth set.

Limited by the decades-old shotput style, O'Brien conceived a new one—the "O'Brien style," now practiced everywhere from Long Beach to Lichtenstein.

HE WAS the first man to move the 16-pound ball 59 feet through the air, then 60, 61, 62 and finally 63.

Thousands of drill hours and perfection in form placed O'Brien a notch or two above anyone else.

A knowledge of psychology placed him on track's highest pedestal.

At competition time, O'Brien administered a case of mental leprosy to his opponents with a well-thought out mixture of ferocity and snootiness. His theories weren't conducive to friendship, but to winning. There was no place but first place to O'Brien.

The Beverly Hills banker has neither the time, weight nor inspiration to stay ahead of youngsters such as Gary Guber, Arthur Rowe and Dallas Long.

He hopes to throw the discus "for fun and exercise" late in the outdoor season. But the world tours, world records and screaming black headlines are fading away in his scrapbooks.

FORTY-TWO teams, comprising 900 athletes already have submitted entries for Saturday's renewal of the Long Beach Relays at Veterans Stadium, meet director Jack Rose informed members of the Southern California Track and Field Writers Assn. Monday.

The quantity of quality insures good marks. The roster includes two 7-foot high

Lifetime Records
The most competitive event in recent years has been the shotput, matching Parry O'Brien, Bill Nieder, Dallas Long and Dave Davis. O'Brien has thrown 63-5, Nieder 65-10, Long 64-7 1/2, Davis 62-6.

jumpers, five 25-foot broad jumpers, three 190-foot discus throwers and two 63-foot shotputters.

Jess Hill, new coach at USC, called it "one of the finest meets in the country" after viewing the entry list.

LINDER SYNTAX... Poly High has better shotputters than USC, so Hill may "triple" 9.8 sprinter, Bruce Munn into the long jump. The California U.C. club, which has a long history of excellence in the shotput, has been shifted to the morning, so that fans can view the USC-Oregon showdown in the afternoon. The shotput will be held at 10 a.m. and the discus at 11 a.m. The shotput will be held at 10 a.m. and the discus at 11 a.m.

The National AAU meet at St. Louis will be nationally televised. The shotput will be held at 10 a.m. and the discus at 11 a.m.

Dr. A. Kenneth Beggs, senior economist for the institute, testified before the state horse racing board at the new state building in the first day of a three-day session on an application of Los Alamitos for 19 days of thoroughbred racing in the late summer.

THE TRACK now is used only for quarter horse racing. Beggs said extended meets at major tracks would be better than short meets at smaller tracks, such as Los Alamitos, because:

1—Large tracks bring in more state revenue than the smaller tracks.

2—They better serve the interests of breeders and owners because of bigger purses and better competition.

3—Bettors favor major meets over smaller ones.

The three-day session will be taken up by testimony from opponents, headed by the Los Angeles and the Hollywood Turf Clubs.

TESTIMONY from Los Alamitos representatives was given at a prior hearing, when track officials said thoroughbred racing would attract good horses, guarantee large purses and furnish state revenue proportionately comparable to that from Santa Anita and Hollywood Park.

THE MAN who hit more home runs in one season than any other major leaguer—one more than Babe Ruth hit when he set his record of 60 for a 154-game season in 1927—refused to predict how many home runs he would hit in 1962.

"I'll settle for anything I come up with. I don't believe in counting my chickens before they are hatched."

MARIS reportedly earned $37,500 last year. So, his contract represents a 96 per cent raise. Roger originally asked for $80,000, some $20,000 more than the Yankees' first offer.

"Maris got an exceptionally good raise," said Roy Hamey, the Yankees' general manager, "partially for breaking the home run record and for having a good year."

HAMEY declined to reveal the exact figure and the $72,000 salary was learned from another source, a highly authoritative one.

All Hamey would say was "it was not a 100 per cent raise."

"I got close to what I wanted," said Maris. "Let's say it was a compromise and I'm satisfied."

THE NEW contract makes Maris the fourth highest paid Yankee in history. Joe DiMaggio earned $100,000 in each of his last two seasons. Ruth's highest salary was $80,000, and Mantle, the highest paid active Yankee, recently signed for $82,000.

NL No Home Run Haven, Says Duke

By GEORGE LEDERER

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Take it from Duke Snider, the National League will not become a home run haven under expansion as the American League did last year.

"Sure, with two more clubs much as the American League, the overall pitching will be weaker, but we won't notice the home run increase as

"There may be some cheap home runs in the Polo Grounds, but the 360-foot foul lines and 395-foot power alleys at Houston will more than offset those."

NO. 1 CHALLENGER Snell Eyes Beatty Duel

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Peter Snell of New Zealand, world record holder for the mile, said Monday his No. 1 target at the moment is to run against Jim Beatty, the American indoor mile champion.

"I would like to meet Beatty in Europe this summer if it can be arranged," Snell said.

He said he also was looking forward to running against former record holder Herb Elliott of Australia at Perth.

Commenting on a report that Beatty is being coached to take his record from him by the year's end, Snell said, "Beatty has done better on boards than outdoors and I don't think Beatty can improve much on his outdoor times."

Snell has run his two sub-four minute miles outdoors this year, including the record-setting time of 3:51.4. Beatty's best time for the mile occurred this year in the Los Angeles Indoor Games Feb. 10 when the former North Carolina runner was clocked in 3:58.9.

SNIDER weighed in Monday at 198 pounds, only two above his best playing weight. He reported at 195 last year after a rigorous winter training program. He didn't touch

Maris Inks for $72,000

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP)—Home run champion Roger Maris agreed to a one-year $72,000 contract Monday, nearly a 100 per cent increase over last year's salary, and said he'll settle for a repeat of his 1961 performance—61 home runs and a .269 batting average.

"They called me the louisiest hitter ever to win the home run title," said the blond New York Yankee slugger. "Well, I wish I could be the louisiest hitter in baseball this year and still hit 61 home runs. As long as I can be good in all the other departments, I'll sacrifice one, my batting average."

ROGER MARIS "Satisfied"

THE MAN who hit more home runs in one season than any other major leaguer—one more than Babe Ruth hit when he set his record of 60 for a 154-game season in 1927—refused to predict how many home runs he would hit in 1962.

HIGHEST PAID Nats' Pact to Piersall New Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Senators said Monday that center-fielder Jim Piersall had signed a contract which would make him the highest paid player in Washington baseball history.

A club spokesman declined to give any specific figure but Piersall's 1962 salary was believed to run between $10,000 and $15,000. The previous highest paid Washington player was Roy Sievers who received $38,000 in 1958.

Piersall came to terms with Senator general manager Ed Doherty who is at the club's training camp at Pompano Beach, Fla. No other details were available here.

The stormy outfielder has balked at terms over recent weeks. One of his demands was a two-year contract.

Rigney Inspects Legions

By ROSS NEWHAN

U. P. Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS—The general will inspect the troops shortly.

This was the word from Angel commandant Bill Rigney Monday after he had met Sunday afternoon with general Dwight D. Eisenhower. The command conference took place on the green battlefield of the Eldorado Country Club where the former president is vacationing.

"He said he would be out to look us over very soon," said Rigney, currently carrying on a vigorous conditioning program to prepare his soldiers for the American League campaign ahead. It will be remembered that Eisenhower visited the Angel camp last spring. He displayed a thorough knowledge of baseball and enjoyed immensely his reunion with Rocky Bridges, Eddie Yost and Tex Clevenger—all of whom had played for the Washington Senators before being traded out of office.

RIGNEY stated that Eisenhower complimented him on the Angels' fine first season and that only the unusually cold weather had kept him from looking in at the Polo Grounds last week.

That cold weather returned to Palm Springs with a shivering vengeance Monday as the Angels continued their re-learning of basic baseball. Twenty-miles away, the desert from Banning to Riverside was being covered by a layer of SNOW.

It did not, however, curtail the workout. In fact, the Angels held a three and one-half hour session—their longest of the spring—and Rigney said the club will be ready for intra-squad games later this week.

A SHIVER (not caused by the cold) did pass up Rigney's back when it became necessary to send Lee Thomas to Dr. Robert Woods for examination of his right foot.

Thomas separated two bones during a workout in St. Louis two weeks before reporting to camp. While the injury seemed to heal, the foot has remained extremely tender and Thomas has been unable to run.

"I was nearing top shape when the injury occurred," said Thomas. "It healed fine, but it's too tender to run on. I'm afraid of what might happen if I cut sharp or caught my spikes."

L.B. Scribe Tabbed Physician

Racing fans the nation over still are buzzing over the astonishing triumph of Physician Saturday in the tradition-flavored Santa Anita Handicap.

However, even if followers of the breed still are shaking their Racing Forms over the county fair gelding's flabbergasting stretch run that left Olden Times and Four-and-Twenty swallowing great chunks of wet dirt, I, P-T readers got the inside "dope" days earlier.

In fact, they received it from two sources. One came from a neophyte handicapper, whose main project within these pages is to chronicle the activities of the gasoline alley auto racing people, Kenny Pivernetz, Young Ken, who may replace Mac McGuire or Roy Betz at any moment, was the only one of 17 staff "experts" to tab Physician.

When asked Sunday how he had arrived at the selection of Physician, a beast who hadn't been in the money since he kayaked a county fair delegation way back last September, Kenneth modestly replied:

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

"It's in the Form. All you had to do was find it."

Mr. Pivernetz, a microscope hasn't been invented that would locate Physician in the Racing Form for this type race... but don't mind me. I hate those "other" kind of people like you—the ones who have winning tickets.

The real feed-box information on Physician came in Walter Dauchy's "Backstretch Browsing" column in Tuesday's Press-Telegram. In fact, the whole darned thesis was written on Physician.

Walter declared in no uncertain terms that he expected Physician to give a big effort in the Big 'Cap. (Makeup men Jerry Wynn and John Dixon were so shaken they almost left out the entire column of perfect prognostication on purpose. Fortunately for them, it ran.)

Of the horse that was 60-1 on the final Caliente Future Book line, Mr. Dauchy commented:

"Should Physician snap back to the form that was his at Pomona, some of the more established stakes stars may have to look to their laurels."

"Physician's starts at Santa Anita have been something short of spectacular, but he has finished close enough to indicate that he may prove a true dark horse Saturday."

Truer words on a truer dark horse never were printed.

DAUCHY DEFENDED the entry of Physician in the race—when the rest of us smart horse players were sickening in our Arcadia juleps—in this fashion:

"County fair racing has struck a couple of big blows in its behalf this season at Santa Anita... with Revel winning the Palos Verdes Handicap on opening day and Queen America the Santa Margarita Handicap."

"Stretch-running Physician could do the same."

"If this keeps up, Santa Anita officials may move their meeting from Arcadia to Pomona next winter."

Dauchy's death blows came early, as evidenced by the following:

"It would be rather ironic, although a great source of satisfaction to supporters of county fair racing, to take up the cudgel for Physician's more widely heralded ersatz stables."

"Time was when a thoroughbred with a past performance record, including starts at a county fair meeting, automatically was denied stall space at Santa Anita."

"... with the performances of county fair horses thus far, a new appraisal of the value of county fair racing to the overall picture of the sport in California certainly seems in order."

With the performance of Physician in the hallowed Santa Anita Handicap, I expect a new appraisal of Orange County fair racing at Los Alamitos Race Course.

Golly, I wonder if Go Man Go or Black Easter Bunny are entered in this Saturday's Santa Anita Derby. The way Physician ran, I may even take a stab at another horribly named Orange County favorite, Speedy Boogie!

Anyway, if you're searching for winners, you know in which daily newspaper to find the real scoop. (And I don't mean in the Merry-Go-Rounder's column)

THE ARCTIC BLADES Figure Skating Club of Paramount gave its three members who will represent the U. S. in the World Championships at Czechoslovakia next month, a rousing early sendoff Sunday.

The sendoff was in the form of a banquet for Barbara Roles Pursley, Yvonne Littlefield and Peter Betts, all national champions.

The affair was particularly warming because it represented the first major recognition of championship figure skaters from this area since last year's tragic plane crash which wiped out the entire U. S. team.

U. S. figure skating team chiefs aren't taking a chance on losing their entire new club this time because all the contenders will be paired on separate air flights. This public notice probably won't make airlines representatives turn handsprings, but the format is beyond debate.

Figure skaters don't have "disaster programs" to dole out athletes as do baseballers, footballers, etc. We have ONE national figure skating team—and we want to keep this one for as long as each members' natural life.

The $20,000-added Fitzgerald Handicap headlines today's racing program at Santa Anita.

This is the feature that annually decides the turf course sprint championship but there are so many odd factors involved there's no telling what may develop.

If it rains enough to move the 6 1/2-furlong dash off the grass to the main track, then Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Windy Sea probably will rule a solid favorite to whip a dozen foes for his fourth straight success this season. Manuel Ycaza will pilot the 5-year-old son of Windy City II.

BUT IF the features goes on grass, trainer Buster Miller will scratch Windy Sea. Under such circumstances John William, with Bill Shoemaker aboard, most likely will take over the role of favorite. However, if the turf course gets any softer trainer Ed Neyoy will scratch John William.

If this happens, Shoemaker will replace Ralph Neves at the controls of Park Royal.

All America Bowls

Rhythm

By SHARON RITCHIE

Director of Women's Activities for American Bowling Federation

Grace gives women an edge over men in bowling.

In the words of the ancient poet, women have "a sweet attractive kind of assurance."

Strength is less important than rhythm, which is the very foundation of physical grace. This is one of the reasons women have taken to the lanes in such numbers.

Dee Purcello, of the AMF Staff of Champions, who boasts a 195 average and is one of the finest instructors, is the personification of grace.

"I feel that rhythm, timing and coordination are the three most important elements in bowling," says Dee.

"Timing and coordination can be sharpened and developed through practice. Rhythm, which makes a bowler's style smooth, can be improved by practice."

Once a ball begins in the pendulum arc—down, back, forward—it is doing most of the work. You are guiding it. The delivery, as you have been taught, is uncomplicated—ball out on the first step, down on the second, back on the third and forward to the release and follow through on the fourth step.

This is the essence of simplicity, and as Plato pointed out, "Beauty of style and harmony and grace and good rhythm depend on simplicity."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP Colavito, Cepeda Head Holdout List

Rocky Colavito and Orlando Cepeda headed the list of players Monday who were unable to reach terms with their respective clubs for the 1967 campaign.

Colavito, who led the Detroit Tigers in home runs last season, is seeking $15,000 raise over his previous contract of approximately $35,000.

"I've reached the saturation point with Colavito," said Tiger vice president Rick Farrell, acknowledging he had raised the outfielder's salary three times in negotiations without reaching an agreement.

President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants said that it might be quite a while before National League home run champion Orlando Cepeda signs his new pact.

CEPEDA is believed to be asking $55,000, exactly twice what he made last year.

Asked if he and the big first baseman were getting closer, Stoneham replied, "Just say we're still not very close."

Milwaukee reported that veteran first sacker Joe Adcock and pitcher Bob Buhl had agreed to terms and only four players remained unsigned.

OF THE four, only pitcher Don McMahon saw more than limited action in 1961. Billy Goodman, Chicago White Sox infielder, signed his new pact Monday to bring

In-Field and Out

By GEORGE LEBERER

You Have to Have a Dodger Roster
VERO BEACH, Fla.—Program sales at Dodger-town are booming and the reason is simple. This year, more than ever, fans can't distinguish the players without a roster.

Of the 39 varsity members in camp, 20 are rookies. Still another, ex-Long Beach State College first baseman Dick Nen, is in the Army. Sixteen of these freshmen never have appeared on a major league roster, yet there is a chance that five or more newcomers will survive the final cutdown date of May 10.

Who will be the chosen few?

Dodger scouting director Al Campanis tabs pitchers Joe Moeller and Phil Ortega, infielders Larry Burright and Dick Tracewski, and first baseman Tim Harkness as the best bets.

Having followed some of the youngsters since their high school days, Campanis probably is best qualified to analyze the huge rookie crop. He is one who does not need a program.

The front office, manager Walter Alston and his coaching staff agree that Moeller will be the most discussed prospect. Opinion differs, however, on the length of the discussion.

General manager Buzzie Bavasi and Alston believe, and hope at this early stage that any Moeller Kaffee-klatsches will be confined to spring training. Campanis says they may last through the season.

Moeller is the best young pitcher we ever have signed. He was the best pitcher in the medical benefit game at Anaheim. He impressed me more than (Barry) Latman, (Bud) Daley and the rest.

"MOELLER HAS A LOT of things going for him. He's precocious, has a wonderful delivery and good aptitude. Ordinarily, we wouldn't want to let a 19-year-old sit on a major league bench while he could be gaining experience in the minors.

"But Moeller is not an ordinary 19-year-old. We lost three pitchers in the expansion draft and they must be replaced. Moeller is one who can do the job."

If Moeller makes the grade, it will be as a spot starter and a "long man" in relief. Ortega is the other long man bullpen candidate.

"With Ortega, it's mostly a matter of adjustment. If he can gain some confidence this spring, the job is his. He certainly has all the tools."

There are five other rookie pitchers, but none in the Moeller and Ortega bracket.

Alan Malkasian, drafted from the Yankees, has had only one season of class C experience. He is 21. "He cost us $12,000," reports Campanis. "And at that price we couldn't pass up the scouting reports."

Thad Tillotson, also 21, needs more time. Larry Staab, 18, is a first-year player and will be assigned to a B or C league. Willard Hunter, 26, has had two good years as a reliever in Triple-A, but is a left-hander and will find it difficult to oust Ron Perranoski.

Jack Smith, 26, is given an outside chance by Campanis. "He had a good year in relief at Atlanta (12-7, 2.09 ERA), but his chances depend mainly on whether (Ed) Roebuck can make another comeback."

★ DOUG CAMILLI, MIKE BRUMLEY and Nate Smith are three rookie catchers, none with a chance unless Norm Sherry is traded. Camilli, the most advanced of the three, has not signed his contract and is a stronger candidate for Bavasi's doghouse.

★ Roy Gleason, of Garden Grove, and Dick Smith are the rookie outfielders. Neither figures since Alston will have his hands full deciding among seven veterans.

While Burright is regarded as the eventual heir to the second base job, Campanis believes that Tracewski has the better immediate chance to make the club.

"Burright is a one-position player. He can spell (Jim) Gilliam on occasions and do a good job. Tracewski is versatile. He can play second, third and shortstop and could be our utility infielder.

"Alston's biggest problem is his decision at first base. If he needs Frank Howard or Ron Fairly in the outfield, Harkness is the real darkhorse candidate.

"The other infield rookies, Bart Shirley, Ken McMullen and Niel Corbo need more experience."

But they'll be around for the next five weeks and won't hurt the sale of programs one bit.

RUSSIAN 'TWIST'

Ballerinas Step, Are Chess Pawns

MOSCOW (AP)—Shapely ballerinas in red stockings served as human pawns in a giant chess game between two Soviet grand masters Monday at the Sports Palace.

The match between Mikhail Botvinnik, the present world champion, and Vasily Smyslov, former world titleholder, ended in a draw—with three blondes and three brunettes left on the floor.

THE UNIQUE match drew a crowd of 15,000 to Moscow's huge indoor arena, the Russian equivalent of New York's Madison Square Garden.

A big chess board was laid out on the floor usually given over to basketball, ice hockey and speeches by Premier Khrushchev.

"Instead of cold, lifeless pieces of carved wood or ivory, trim ballet dancers were used as pawns. Half were dressed in white and half in black but all wore bright red stockings. They represented kings, queens and castles.

AS BOTVINNIK or Smyslov made a move, a ballerina danced gracefully into position on the selected square.

The two grim-faced masters attempted to make a serious match of it but the crowd became restive and noisy. They

PLAYOFFS BEGIN TONIGHT Hares, Rams Carry Local CIF Banners

By DOUG IVES

Poly and Millikan carry the Long Beach banner into the CIF basketball playoffs tonight and optimism is running high with coaches Bill Mulligan and Howie Lyon. Culver City provides the opposition for Poly's rapid Rabbits in the Long Beach

City College gym. Millikan plays at El Segundo. Both games start at 8 p.m.

"If we don't get overconfident, as we have before, we shouldn't have much trouble," said Mulligan, whose Hares boast a 12-game winning streak.

"I scouted them (El Segundo) last week and I'm sure we can win if we play the way we're capable of," was Lyon's reply.

El Segundo, the Pioneer League champion with a 12-2 record, didn't show a thing last week, losing to Culver City, 58-21. The Eagles had nothing to lose, having wrapped up the league crown, and played like they didn't.

CULVER City earned a second-place tie and a playoff berth by virtue of its win. The Centaurs closed with an 11-3 record.

Both Poly and Millikan will face teams of their liking. Culver City is a running team, which should please Poly no end. El Segundo plays more deliberately and Millikan has handled teams like this before.

Even though Culver City uses a go-go offense, coach Del Goodyear indicated he'd slow down a bit. "From what I hear, it would be foolish to run against Poly."

Culver City's top scorers are center Ken Petersen and forward Jack Riley. Petersen is the tallest Centaur at 6-3 1/2, which means Poly will have a big height advantage.

CENTER Andy Anderson is the most dangerous El Segundo player. Like Culver City, however, the Eagles are small and Millikan's muscle on the boards could prove decisive.

If Poly, who has reached the finals two successive years, wins, it likely will face Pius X. A Millikan victory would no doubt bring the Rams up against Chaffey. This is when things start getting hazardous for the local teams. Lineups:

El Segundo
Slater (6-3)
Dun (6-3)
North (6-3)
Brown (6-2)
Gonzalez (6-2)
Culver City
Riley (6-3)
Petersen (6-3 1/2)
Warburton (6-1)
Kinsley (6-1)

'ASSURED' OF BIG FIVE CROWN 'Glowing' Wooden Now Eying NCAA Playoff Bid

UCLA basketball coach John Wooden, openly optimistic for the first time this season, flatly predicted his Bruin team would win at least one of its last three games and clinch the undisputed Big Five championship.

The Bruins gained at least a tie for the title last weekend with victories over Stanford—their closets contender—and California. However all three remaining UCLA games are on the road and conceivably Stanford or Southern California could finish tied for the lead.

But Wooden, who had refused to admit the UCLA team was in good position, told the Southern California basketball writers the Bruins will take the crown and the NCAA playoff bid.

"And we'll be scouting Arizona State this weekend," explained Wooden. The Sun Devils, a possible playoff opponent, play Los Angeles State this weekend in Los Angeles.

Wooden's counterpart at rival USC—Forrest Twogood—said the only reason he could find for the Trojans' sudden collapse was a failure to shoot well, especially in key situations.

SOUTHERN CAL had won 9 of its opening 10 games and at the time was ranked third in the nation. However, USC now has dropped five of its last seven, including two to the University of Houston last weekend.

"We haven't been able to get a basket when we most needed it in our past few games," said Twogood. "Our ball club is trying harder than ever but we're disappointed because we haven't been able to score."

The Lakers clinched the National Basketball Association Western division championship over the weekend, but coach Fred Schaus insisted the team wouldn't let up in its remaining eight games.

"I DON'T think we can catch the Celtics to win the money for the highest percentage," Schaus said. "But we would like to break the Western Division record of 52 wins in a season."

Schaus said in order to give Elgin Baylor enough practice with the Lakers before the playoff games—since Elgin cannot get away from his Army duty—the entire Laker team would fly to Seattle to train with Baylor.

Hunt's Testimony Contents NFL Plan

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lamar Hunt contended Monday that the National Football League did not announce expansion plans in 1959 until after he founded the American Football League.

Hunt, owner of the Dallas Texans in the AFL, was the only witness to testify in U.S. District Court on the first day of the AFL's $10 million antitrust suit against the NFL. He was on the stand more than four hours.

THE SUIT, which accuses the NFL of monopolizing professional football, includes a charge that the older league expanded into Dallas in an effort to destroy the AFL.

Hunt told Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, who is hearing the case without a jury, that the AFL was formally organized at a meeting in Dallas on Aug. 22, 1959, and six $25,000 checks covering the original franchises subsequently were deposited in a bank.

One week later, Hunt said, the chairman of the NFL's expansion committee, George Halas, announced that the NFL would field teams in Dallas and Houston in 1961.

Actually, the NFL moved into Dallas in 1960, the inaugural year of the AFL, and into Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1961. Both the Texans of the AFL and the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL have operated at a deficit the past two seasons.

HUNT SAID he formed the new league after failing in an effort to purchase the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL and after his suggestion that the established league expand into Dallas was rejected.

As late as June, 1959, Hunt said, the late Bert Bell, commissioner of the NFL, told him his loop was not interested in expansion. Several months earlier, Hunt said, Halas told him that expansion "was several years away."

HUNT said he met with Bell on July 29, 1959, to inform him of plans for the AFL, and asked Bell to serve as commissioner of both leagues, with a structure similar to the two major leagues of organized baseball.

"Bell said he couldn't serve," Hunt testified, "saying he was overworked as commissioner of one league. But he advised us to seek someone with whom he could work."

Hunt indicated the three-hour talk was amicable, with the veteran commissioner giving advice on how to establish the new league. He said Bell rejected proposals for a common player draft and a television blackout involving both leagues.

team would fly to Seattle to train with Baylor.

Other notes and quotes of the meeting.

—Pepperdine's Lee Tinsley and UCLA's Walt Hazzard were named co-players of the week.

—Pepperdine coach Duck Dowell, commenting on the teamwork that has the Waves leading the West Coast Athletic Conference: "This team is all Indians and no chiefs and that's the way we play."

—Los Angeles State coach Sax Elliot describing Arizona State: "They're like a big mud slide—they not only roll over you but leave you dirty."

—Loyola coach John Arndt after losing two games to St. Mary's by one point each in the final seconds: "I'm too numb to recount what happened."

McFerson Beats Out Florentine

The hectic battle between Fresno State forward Mike McFerson and Long Beach State's Bill Florentine to rewrite the all-time CCAA career scoring mark ended last weekend with the Bulldog ace on top.

McFerson wound up with 36 points against Cal Poly (SLO) to run his total to 577 while Florentine finished with 556, both surpassing the old mark of 540 that was set by former L. A. State star Leo Hill. With the addition of San Fernando State to the league this year, both McFerson and Florentine had two more shots at the record.
